Firemen hoping to contain rash of state blazes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A red flag alert, the official warning of extreme fire danger, continued throughout Southern California as fire fighters pressed toward containment of a major blaze.

Flames that swayed back and forth with the wind since Tuesday, had churned through 1,800 acres of brush in the Thousand Oaks area of Ventura County by 9 a.m. today.

Fire inspector Bob Stowe said full containment was expected by 10 a.m., after about 300 firemen quelled hot spots on the last 3,000 feet of open line on the fire's eastern flank.

Stowe said nine firemen had received minor injuries but none required hospitalization.

Helicopters continued to drop water on the pesky hot spots, and air tankers continued to remain on standby at reactivated Oxnard Air Force Base in Camarillo. The field, taken from the active duty roster by the Air Force seven years ago, was pressed into service Wednesday to refuel the fire fighting planes.

Temperatures at Los Angeles reached a sweltering 102 degrees Wednesday, shattering a record high of 94, set for the date in 1931.

Tom Rehm, assistant chief of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, said the Red Flag alert was in effect for the entire Southern California area because of low humidity, high temperatures and winds.

Two brush fires in the Newhall area of Los Angeles County were reported contained Wednesday night.

One fire burned 175 acres near Val Verde, the other scorched growth on 50 acres of land about 4 miles north of Newhall, authorities said.

A 50-square-mile grass fire, the biggest of the year in drought-parched California, raged outof control today near this Sierra foothills town but fire officials were hopeful of checking the blaze before sundown.

"If thing's go right, we hope to have it contained by 6 p.m.," said Jim Turner, spokesman for the California Division of Forestry, at a predawn news briefing.

As he spoke, residents continued to spray water on their homes and prayed that a fresh easterly wind would continue. Fire officials said they were confident the town would be spared if the wind held.

In Tehama County, where hundreds of acres of grazing land burned last week, firemen with the help of two aerial tankers stopped a 300-acre blaze in a recreational subdivision called Rancho Tehama.

About 75 fire fighters contained a 300-acre grassland fire Wednesday night 20 miles east of Clear Lake, about 185 miles northeast of San Francisco.

At Plymouth, Turner said the fire, fanned by 50 mile-an-hour winds from the north, came within about four miles of this Amador County community of about 600. Then it shifted direction.

It destroyed "four or five homes" and burned a swath up to five miles wide and 11 miles long, blackening oaks, brush and grazing land.

Turner said the only known injuries were to two volunteers who were treated at a hospital for smoke inhalation and released.

A plant which processes decorative bark was destroyed, and about 14 structures, mainly sheds and barns, were lost, Turner said.

He added it would be some time before a full assessment of damage would be possible.

100 injured in jetliner crash, but no deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An Allegheny Airlines jetliner with 103 persons aboard broke apart while trying to land at Philadelphia's International Airport during a freak storm. No one was killed.

One hundred persons were treated at various hospitals. Twenty-six of them were admitted, 18 in serious condition. The pilot, Carl Boyer of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., was in critical condition with a fractured skull.

The tail section of the twin-engine DC9 — Flight 121 bound from Providence, R.I., to Memphis, Tenn., with stops at Hartford, Conn., and Philadelphia — came to rest 400 feet from the fuselage.

Both engines also broke off the wings as the plane skidded off the busy airport's main runway at 5:10 p.m. and just missed ramming a TWA plane waiting to take off.

Brad Dunbar of the National Transportation Safety Board said the voice and data recorders were recovered from the cockpit and sent to Washington for study.

"It's much too early to speculate on a cause," said Dunbar, adding that a full investigation would be launched today. "After studying the tail section and fuselage, we'll be able to tell if the tail hit first or the landing gear collapsed or what."

Several witnesses said it appeared the landing gear crumpled. Others said the heavy rains and high winds, which occurred only at the airport area for a period of several minutes, caused excessive turbulence.

"The pilot was trying to pull it back up," said 24-year-old Frank Marchetti of Torrington, Conn., a passenger. "We were at full power when we fell.

"The pilot had just announced it was 91 degrees and hot and sunny in Philadelphia. Then it started raining like hell. The wind was blowing us all over the place."

It was the first crash at the airport since 1951, when seven persons died. The last Allegheny crash was in June 1971 at New Haven, Conn., killing 28.

All flights were halted for 90 minutes until the wreckage was cleared.

Boyer, 50, who also had bone chips in his spine, underwent surgery at St. Agnes Hospital.

Copilot Jack Spencer, 37, of Pittsburgh, and one of two flight attendants, Ilidiko Tavolgyl of Coraopolis, Pa., were in serious condition at Methodist Hospital. The other flight attendant, Susan Morris of Aliquippa, Pa., was in fair condition at the same hospital.

James Dougherty, an Eastern Airlines employe who saw the crash, said the plane's landing gear collapsed.

There were no fatalities, but 18 were seriously hurt.

Suspect surrenders; parking lot incident happened a year ago

A young Chino man has been charged with murder in the death more than a year ago of a 45-year-old man who was run down and killed by a car on a Pomona parking lot.

The suspect, Robert Charles Stone, 19, of 12552 Ramona Ave., surrendered himself Wednesday afternoon to Pomona Municipal Court, Judge James Piatt, who ordered him taken into custody after setting bail at $15,000. Stone was accompanied by his lawyer, Raymond Youngquist of Pomona.

Stone turned himself in after learning that he had been named in a murder warrant issued several days ago by Pomona Municipal Court Judge Thomas Nuss, according to Pomona Detective James Holmes.

The victim in the incident was Simeon Lee, a former resident of the Philippines who had moved to Pomona just two days before he was killed on the Pep Boys parking lot at 336 E. Holt Ave. the night of June 21, 1975. Lee, a student at Cal Poly, was pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Holmes said that the warrant was issued after an anonymous informant called the police with information about Lee's death. The call may have been in response to a $1,000 reward offered by Lee's brother-in-law, an optometrist in Thousand Oaks, he said.

The information led to further interviews of persons alleged to have been in the car and subsequently the request for the murder warrant against Lee.

Authorities charged that Lee was killed as the result of a game of "chicken," in which the driver followed Lee across the parking lot, seeing how close he could come to him with the car.

They said that as the hapless victim ran, dodged and leaped out of the way, he was pursued across the lot until he finally made the wrong move and jumped into the path of the car.

Stone, who police said is the son of a Chino feed company owner, was scheduled to return to court today in an effort to gain a reduction in bail. In addition to murder, he was charged with felonious hit-run driving.

Expect 100-plus today

Another blistering day is in store for valley residents today with temperatures expected to go beyond 100 degrees.

The weatherman said the latest heat wave is the result of a high pressure front moving inland along the Southland and Mexico, which brought a record high to Pomona Wednesday.

Wednesday's high of 99 smashed a record for a June 23. The previous high of 98 was established in 1973. The weatherman said today's readings will almost surely better the record of 94 for a June 24, also set in 1973.

The forecast, however, calls for cooler temperatures for the weekend, with the mercury touching the mid-90s in the afternoons. Light to moderate smog is expected for the next several days.

Even with Wednesday's record heat, Pomonans fared better than their counterparts in other nearby cities. The high at Ontario Airport was 104, with the same predicted for today. Los Angeles had a humid 97 degrees, San Bernardino had 103, Riverside 104, and Palm Springs, 107.

Reagan in bid to cut Ford's delegate lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan resumes his delegate hunt today with a three-day, five-state campaign tour which he hopes will cut President Ford's 80-delegate lead in half.

The Ford campaign concedes some minor losses this weekend. But if the President wins all the battles targeted by his aides, Ford will move to within 94 delegates of the nomination and see his lead trimmed by just seven delegates.

State Republican conventions will pick 63 national delegates this weekend in Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico and Idaho. The former California governor hopes to win up to 51 of those delegates, while the President's aides hope to hold Reagan to 33.

Reagan also plans private meetings with uncommitted delegates in Mississippi today and in Wyoming Friday.

Ford now has 1,008 of the 1,130 delegates needed for the Republican nomination in August, and Reagan is 80 delegates behind at 928. There are 161 uncommitted delegates and 161 yet to be chosen, including the 63 at stake this weekend.

Reagan has been slowly whittling away at Ford's delegate lead since the primaries concluded June 8 with voting in New Jersey, Ohio and California.

This weekend is Reagan's best chance to make up that deficit, and it is a must-win situation for him, because the delegate hunting gets harder after this weekend.

Among the 98 delegates to be selected next month, Ford has a lock on most, if not all, of 35 at stake in Connecticut. Reagan is favored for 25 in Colorado and 20 in Utah. Only North Dakota, where 18 are at stake, is viewed as an even battle.

Reagan plans to appear in person this weekend at the state conventions in Montana, Idaho and Minnesota, where he is slated for his second face-to-face meeting in as many weeks with First Lady Betty Ford, who is campaigning for her husband.

Minnesota appeared to be the major battleground this weekend. Ford won the first round of delegate selection by a 16-5 margin in congressional district meetings.

The President's backers hoped to sweep the 18 at-large delegates to be picked Friday, which Reagan backers claimed they were entitled to six.

The situation is reversed in Montana. Reagan won the nonbinding primary there June 1 with 65 per cent of the vote.

High court kills law extending overtime and other provisions of Fair Labor Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided Supreme Court today struck down a two-year federal law extending overtime and other provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act to an estimated 3.4 million state and local government employes.

In a 5 to 4 decision, the court said the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce does not authorize it "to force directly upon the states its choices as to how essential decisions regarding the conduct of integral governmental functions are to be made."

Cities and states had argued that the act would cost them $275.5 million a year in overtime for police and firemen alone. Increased costs of all kinds for state and local government employes were estimated at more than $1 billion.

The government disputed the estimates, saying over-all wage costs would be increased by less than two per cent.

Laws and regulations extending the act to nonsupervisory state and local government employes, those covered by today's ruling, have been held in abeyance pending the court challenge.

Dissenting Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall said their colleagues' reasoning was "a transparent cover for invalidating a congressional judgment with which they disagree." Justice John Paul Stevens dissented in a separate opinion.

In the majority opinion by Justice William H. Rehnquist, the court also overruled its own 1968 decision upholding a 1966 extension of the act to an estimated 2.9 million employes of state-owned hospitals and nonteaching employes of state-owned schools.

In the 1968 ruling, the court said the institutions were sufficiently engaged in interstate commerce to make them subject to the federal act.

Rehnquist said there were "undoubtedly factual distinctions" between the school and hospital employes and the nonsupervisory workers covered by the 1974 extension. But he said the court did not believe the reasoning of its 1968 decision "may any longer be regarded as authoritative.

"We have reaffirmed today that the states as states stand on quite a different footing than an individual or a corporation when challenging the exercise of Congress' power to regulate commerce," Rehnquist added.

The Fair Labor Standards Act prescribes minimum wages, hours and other working conditions. The present minimum wage is $2.30 an hour.

The act bars the practice, which is common in state and local government, of compensating overtime by giving time off in a later period.

The law was passed by Congress in 1938 but all employes of states and their political subdivisions were excluded from coverage until Congress passed the extension for school and hospital workers in 1966. It was extended to nonsupervisory employes in 1974.

An estimate made in Congress in 1973, while the extension was being considered, said that 95,000 state and local government employes were paid less than the minimum wage.

The court heard arguments on the case twice. Lawyers argued on April 16, 1975 before eight justices, with the ailing William O. Douglas absent.

GOP legislators hold out for education aid, labor board changes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Republicans say they will fight to hold up the 1976-77 state budget until they get more funds for local schools and changes in the state farm labor board.

Meanwhile, the compromise budget — which has already failed in its first Assembly test — was scheduled for a state Senate vote today.

Leaders of the 25 Assembly Republicans said they want $310 million in additional school finance and property tax relief money guaranteed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Democratic legislative leaders.

The money includes $20 million for community colleges, another $40 million in a combined community college and adult education measure, and $250 million in a public school finance bill by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento.

In an Associated Press interview, Brown called the Republicans "secret big spenders" and said that the $310 million "will have to be pared back."

Brown declined to say how much money he would approve for schools, and wouldn't take a position on the GOP farm labor demands.

At a hastily called news conference Wednesday, the Republicans also said they want several changes in the dormant farm labor board, which the budget funds to the tune of $6.68 million.

Until their demands are met, the GOP leaders said they will not deliver any votes for the budget, which funds state government for the fiscal year starting July 1.

"I say to (Democratic) Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy that it's time he listened to what we want. It's time for him to respond to what the people want," said Assembly GOP minority leader Paul Priolo.

The Democratic leadership reacted angrily to the GOP demands, which came one day after the budget stalled eight votes short of its needed two-thirds majority of 54 in the 80-seat house.

"This is the first I've heard of it. I guess they worked it out in a smoke-filled room late last night. And they didn't have the courtesy to discuss this with the Democratic leadership before they went to the press," snapped Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, the Concord Democrat who chaired the two-house budget conference committee.

On farm labor, the GOP proposed requiring that the $6.8 million in the budget for the state farm labor board go only to this board and not to any new board created if a November ballot measure passes.

'Unforgiveable'—Chavez

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The legislature's failure to approve the state budget primarily because of a disagreement over a $6.7 million allocation for the Agriculture Labor Relations Board was "unforgiveable," says farm labor leader Cesar Chavez.

"The politicians are playing games with the lives of the very people who work to feed them — it's shameful," Chavez declared Wednesday in a speech before a national conference of rabbis.

Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers, said the union will press for passage of a November ballot measure requiring the legislature to fund the ALRB.

"I'm tired of talking to the legislature — they're the wrong people," he said. "If the voters approve the right of the workers to vote on union representation, that right would be cast in concrete and not left up to the whims of the legislature."

Panel votes against malpractice plan backed by Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Brown administration-backed proposal that could put the state in the medical malpractice insurance business has suffered a serious legislative setback.

The Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee, after hearing opposition from the California Medical Association and insurance companies, rejected the bill Wednesday on a 2-6 vote.

Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, won permission to take a new vote on his bill in August, but conceded passage would be difficult.

Witnesses at the three-hour hearing included numerous doctors on both sides, but those carrying the most weight came from the CMA — armed with a private poll that said nearly two-thirds of the 14,000 doctors who responded oppose the bill.

Berman said the measure is "the only short-term solution" available to a crisis that has prompted two doctors' strikes in protest against increases of up to 400 per cent in price.

If passed, doctors would be polled on whether they want to buy all their insurance from the state.

If 60 per cent of those who answered said yes, all California doctors would have to participate. If fewer voted for it, a voluntary fund would be created as soon as 18,000 doctors signed up.

Both funds would offer insurance at an initial average rate of $4,000, about a third of the current average. Increases would average about 15 per cent under the mandatory fund and 30 per cent under the voluntary fund.

If the mandatory fund ran up a deficit — something Berman said wouldn't happen for 14 years — patients would receive only a percentage of their awards.

Berman said that pro-rate provision is considered constitutional by the state attorney general. But CMA president-elect Kash Rose called it "constitutionally suspect" and certain to be challenged in court.

Berman replied that "the ultimate pro-rata" is doctors who have dropped their malpractice insurance and couldn't pay anything in a malpractice suit.

He said about 20 per cent of California's doctors now practice without insurance. And if the bill is defeated, Berman told reporters, the next proposed measure may be one requiring doctors to carry insurance.

Another CMA objection was that the bill would drive out of business the doctor-owned insurance companies that have sprung up. One witness said 7,500 doctors now buy insurance through those companies.

"Doctor-owned insurance companies are in business and are sound and worthwhile," said Dr. William Clark, secretary-treasurer of the doctor-owned Medical Insurance Exchange.

Probe of Cory ended

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A federal grand jury in Sacramento says it's found no reason to continue the investigation of state Controller Ken Cory which began about 11 months ago, says federal attorney Dwayne Keyes.

But aside from reporting that the jury had decided that "there will be no indictment returned," Keyes declined to comment Wednesday.

Newspapers had said last July that federal authorities were investigating Cory.

The Sacramento Bee, citing sources in the U.S. Justice Department in Sacramento, said investigators were looking at Cory's firing of 23 inheritance tax referees and appointment of 74 new ones. It said authorities were trying to determine if Cory solicited campaign contributions with promises of appointments.

It was reported that some appointees were linked with persons who had contributed to Democrat Cory's campaign.

One inheritance tax referee said he was fired because his law partner refused to raise money for the campaign.

Eight of those who lost their jobs brought legal action — later dropped — saying they had been unlawfully dismissed.

Cory, who denied any wrongdoing, said at the time, "I think the losers of political plums don't like losing their cushy jobs."

The Bee said the investigation centered on whether Cory's mailed dismissal notices to the referees set off a chain of events that constituted violation of the federal mail fraud statute.

Inheritance tax referees evaluate the estates of the deceased for tax purposes. Some reportedly make as much as $100,000 a year.

Claremont dial-ride called best in state

The city of Claremont has the best cost-effective dial-a-ride taxicab service in the state, and possibly in the nation, the City Council has been informed.

Gene Stalians, whose Paul's Yellow Cab Co. Inc. has had the city dial-a-ride contract since October 1974, made the statement Tuesday night while obtaining approval of an 18 per cent increase in metered fares.

Stalians charges the city a flat 96.8 cents per in-service mile for the dial-a-ride service, and it wouldn't be affected by the increase.

Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman said that it costs 80 to 84 cents per passenger per mile for the dial-a-ride service, possibly the lowest anywhere.

Brotzman said that dial-a-ride is carrying 1,800 to 2,000 passengers a month within the city limits for 35 cents a ride.

At times passengers must share the ride with others.

Brotzman told the council Tuesday night that, based on the latest information available, it appears that the city's cost of subsidizing dial-a-ride for 1975-76 fiscal year will amount to between $14,500 and $15,000.

"Based on our current level of service without fare modifications, it appears the subsidy cost for 1976-77 will be between $18,000 and $18,500," Brotzman said.

The city's proposed budget for a 1976-77 subsidy totals $16,000, therefore the city must either curtail service or increase fees to raise the necessary $2,500.

Brotzman said the most feasible alternative would be increasing the fare 15 cents to 50 cents.

Brotzman said that such a fare level would generate at least $500 more than needed to stay within the subsidy level proposed.

Brotzman explained that since dial-a-ride ridership drops in July and August it would be possible to delay the implementation of the fare increase until September.

Brotzman said that he has applied for a $5,000 grant from the Urban Mass Transit Administration through San Bernardino County and the West Valley Transit Service Authority to help run the program.

He also explained that he has filed for a state funded grant to buy a vehicle which could be sub-let to Paul's Yellow Cab and be equipped with swivel seats for use of people with walkers or wheelchairs. The wheelchairs, of course, would be stored in the trunk of the vehicle.

"We might also look to providing two stops outside city limits for our passengers — Casa Colina and Pomona Valley Community Hospital," Brotzman explained.

The council has gone along with the recommendation to wait until August before deciding on a fare increase.

Rock star used cocaine

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Rock star Gregg Allman has testified in federal court that he used cocaine regularly from the fall of 1973 through January 1975. He said he no longer uses the drug.

Allman testified Wednesday — in return for government immunity — in the trial of his former bodyguard and valet, John C. "Scooter" Herring, who is charged with illegally distributing cocaine.

Allman, who is married to entertainer Cher Bono, said that during the period in question he purchased cocaine 15 times from Herring.

A castle for a princess

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has bought a 200-year-old country estate for her daughter, Princess Anne, and son-in-law, Capt. Mark Phillips, Buckingham Palace says.

Local farmers and land appraisers said the estate in Gloucestershire could have cost $1.3 million. It belonged to Lord Butler, a former British home secretary.

Some left-wing lawmakers protested the purchase, which was announced Wednesday. Laborite Ron Thomas said, "I find this example of the flaunting of wealth appalling and, indeed, almost obscene."

But Paul said there are "special dangers" to the U.S. from "abortion and euthanasia."

Mayor Daley on marriage

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard Daley has used his 40th wedding anniversary to lecture reporters about the virtues of marriage.

Daley, 74, said Wednesday that marriage "is as good today as ever — a good family relationship is what this whole country is based on."

Politics and public office are bound to take a man away from his family, the mayor said. But he said that "from the very beginning we've always kept one day for the youngsters and the family."

Daley is married to the former Eleanor "Sis" Guilfoyle, his childhood sweetheart.

Even over Ford veto

Jobs bill will become law, democrats predict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic leadership is predicting that a $3.95-billion public works employment bill will become law either with President Ford's signature or over his veto.

The House on Wednesday passed the legislation 328 to 83, substantially more than the two-thirds needed to override a presidential veto. The Senate approved the measure 70 to 25 last week, also enough to override any Ford veto.

Meanwhile, Deputy Presidential Press Secretary John G. Carlson said Ford will not make a decision on whether to veto the measure until it reaches the White House and he has a chance to study it point by point.

"In the past," said Carlson, "the President has expressed grave reservations about this type of legislaton and strongly believes the way to provide increased employment is through the private sector, and I certainly would not rule out the possibility of a veto."

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said:

"We are going to make this bill law, either with the President's signature or over his veto."

He said the bill would provide 350,000 jobs and authorize $3.95 billion to finance the construction of local facilities such as municipal offices, courthouses, libraries, water and sewer lines, streets and other projects.

The bill is a revision of a larger $6.2-billion public works employment measure which Ford vetoed last February. The House overrode the veto, but the Senate sustained the President by three votes.

"We are following through with the promise of the Democratic congressional leadership to provide jobs," said O'Neill.

Two House Republicans, Garry Brown of Michigan and Delbert L. Latta of Ohio, said Ford would veto the bill.

"We are sending it downtown for a sure veto," warned Latta.

Brown labeled the bill a "pork-barrelling" scheme to throw money around the nation.

The bill would authorize $2 billion through Sept. 30, 1977, for grants to state and local governments for public works projects that can be started within 90 days. Another $1.25 billion would be earmarked for antirecession grants to maintain essential state and local services during times of high unemployment.

There would be $700 million for construction of publicly owned wastewater treatment plants.

When Ford vetoed the $6.1-billion bill earlier this year, he said it was "little more than election-year pork barrel" with "so many deficiencies and undesirable provisions that it would do more harm than good."

He said it would cost more than $25,000 for each job created and that the bill's sponsors were exaggerating when they said it would create 600,000 to 800,000 new jobs. Ford also said the bill would take too long to have an effect and would encourage inflation.

John Gunther, director of the United States Conference of Mayors, praised Congress for its work.

"Congress has demonstrated for the second time that it understands the economic problems of the nation," Gunther said. "This measure includes $1.25 billion in emergency funds for hard-pressed cities. The needs of the cities demand that President Ford sign the bill."

House Demos OK payroll reforms over sex scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats approved a package of sweeping payroll and expense account reforms in the wake of the Capitol Hill sex scandal, with some members warning that failure to act could hurt their chances for re-election in November.

The House Democratic Caucus approved the changes by voice vote Wednesday night after a meeting occasionally characterized by confusion and shouting. Opponents of the changes tried unsuccessfully to postpone action on the grounds that they had had no time to study the proposals.

The House Administration Committee was to meet today to implement most of the changes. The committee's new chairman, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., was elected chairman of the panel by the whole House to replace Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio.

Hays resigned the post after Elizabeth Ray charged that he placed her on the committee payroll solely to provide him with sex. Hays has denied that charge.

The changes approved by the Democratic caucus would require public accounting on every House employe's job and all of every member's expenses, strip the Administration Committee of much of the funding power Hays had won for it and consolidate members' expense accounts.

The only overhaul that goes directly to Miss Ray's payroll-sex charge against Hays is one requiring monthly certification by every House member and leader of each of his or her employes' duties and pay.

Other accounting revisions the Democrats ordered the Administration Committee to carry out would:

—Eliminate members' $1,140 postage allowance, since domestic mailing is free, and halt members' ability to save up unused stationery money for their retirements.

—End members' ability to draw up to $11,000 in cash a year for stationery and travel and cut their 20-cents-a-mile mileage down to the 15 cents that other federal employes get.

Ford's busing proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford sent Congress a proposal today to limit busing programs to five years and narrowing the cases in which courts could order busing to desegregate public schools.

"I believe that busing as a remedy ought to be the last resort and that it ought to be limited in scope to correcting the effects of previous constitutional violations," the President said in a message accompanying the proposed legislation.

White House officials said the measure stresses the difference between segregation caused by acts of government officials and segregation caused by other reasons, such as neighborhood housing patterns.

Ford said some federal courts have gone too far in busing orders.

His bill would authorize judges to order busing only to correct segregation caused by official government actions, such as actions by a school board.

It also would create an independent national community and education committee to help any school community requesting civilian assistance in voluntarily resolving its school segregation problems.

The President said he personally believes every community should effectively desegregate on a voluntary basis. But he added: "I recognize that some court action is inevitable."

"The goal of the judicial remedy in a school desegregation case ought to be to put the school system and its students where they would have been if the acts which violate the Constitution had never occurred," Ford said.

Under guidelines in his bill, Ford said, courts would be required "to determine the extent to which acts of unlawful discrimination by governmental officials have caused a greater degree of racial concentration in a school or school system than would have existed in the absence of such acts."

He said the bill would further require the courts to limit relief to what is necessary to correct the racial imbalance actually caused by those unlawful acts.

"This would prohibit a court from ordering busing throughout an entire school system simply for the purpose of achieving racial balance," the President said.

Report hits failure to pursue leads in Kennedy assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard Schweiker says his staff is pursuing a number of leads on the assassination of President Kennedy that could link the 1963 slaying to either a pro-or anti-Cuban conspiracy.

The leads were not disclosed in the Senate intelligence committee's report on the assassination, Schweiker said. The committee report was released Wednesday, revealing a pattern of noncooperation between key CIA and FBI officials and the Warren Commission, which concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy.

One lead mentioned in the Senate committee report, involving the "strange travel" of a Cuban-American with a possible tie to Oswald and Cuban intelligence, also is being pursued. Staffers are checking a reported sighting of the man in Dallas at the time of the Kennedy assassination in November 1963, Schweiker said.

The Pennsylvania Republican refused to disclose any details concerning one "very hot lead" that would link the assassination to an anti-Cuban group or another "very promising" lead involving pro-Cuban forces, saying to do so would jeopardize the investigation.

Schweiker commented following the release of a 106-page report Wednesday which said the CIA and FBI failed to follow up leads that "might have substantially affected the course of the investigation" into whether there was a conspiracy to kill Kennedy.

The committee stressed it did not uncover evidence justifying a conclusion that there was a conspiracy to assassinate Kennedy. But the panel said the failure of the CIA and FBI to pursue certain leads "impeaches the process" which led the Warren Commission to conclude that Oswald acted alone.

According to the report, senior government officials "wanted the investigation completed promptly and all conspiracy rumors dispelled." Within 14 hours of Kennedy's death, the FBI narrowed the focus of its investigation to Oswald alone and within weeks issued a report concluding Oswald was the sole assassin, the report said.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover "perceived the Warren Commission as an adversary" which might criticize the FBI's monitoring of Oswald before the assassination and its investigation into the killing itself, the report said.

Hoover concealed the fact that 17 FBI agents had been disciplined for their failure to recognize Oswald as a security threat, according to the report.

Trio robs Ontario market

Three men, one armed with a .38 revolver, robbed the Circle K Market at Sunkist Street and Euclid Avenue in Ontario early this morning of a small amount of cash and 10 wrist watches, police reported.

Store clerk John Phane told police that the three men, all blacks, walked into the store about 12:20 a.m. One of the men pulled a gun while the others grabbed the cash from the register and placed 10 watches of various value into paper bags. The robbers ordered Phane to lie on the floor and fled out the door.

The first robber was described as being 18 to 20, 5 feet 6, wearing blue jeans and a purple pullover shirt. He wore a silver wristband with a round black stone in the middle. The gunman was described as being 18 to 20, 5 feet 6, with short hair. He was wearing blue jeans and a T-shirt. The third robber was about the same age and height and was wearing a blue shirt and blue jeans.

Burglary suspect

An 18-year-old Ontario man was arrested by police Wednesday night after smashing in a window of an apartment, entering and threatening its occupants at 704 W. Nevada St. in ONTARIO.

Robert Gerald Newcom of 11256 Bolten Ave., was booked in the West End jail this morning for investigation of burglary as a result of the incident.

Police said that Newcom smashed the window of the apartment occupied by Stephen Lee, 21, and Gloria L. Dalton, 17, and threatened the girl. Police said the suspect cut his wrist smashing the window. Several residents of the apartment complex called police to report the incident and officers arrived in time to apprehend the suspect.

Car lot break-in

A security guard at Monahan Motors, 759 W. Holt Blvd., ONTARIO, arrested a man allegedly breaking into the used car company office Wednesday night and turned him over to police.

Raymond Tarazon Corrales, 38, of 210 S. Fern Ave., Ontario, was booked in the West End jail this morning for investigation of first degree burglary.

Police said the security guard, Dan Merritt, 29, caught the suspect attempting to enter the office and several cars in the lot.

Controversial mental health program

Prison inmate in diapers

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Some Washington State Penitentiary inmates who misbehaved had to wear diapers, crawl on the floor and carry baby bottles. Others were chained and handcuffed to beds.

It was all part of Dr. William Hunter's system for modifying the behavior of inmates who had a history of violence and self-destruction. The program was praised by many penal experts, and it was condemned by many lawyers defending inmate clients.

"Probably the most effective rehabilitation program that may well exist in the prison system," said a Johns Hopkins University expert. Said an attorney, "He beat people into submission."

The psychologist, relieved as director of the prison's mental health program June 2, said he feels he was sacrificed by politicians "who want to save their own throats." He is now a therapist, with two months to go to retirement at 67.

Hunter, in an interview, said his methods worked. They dealt with the "worst, most hopeless people in this state" on their own levels, he said.

"The makeup of the psychopath's personality is such that he does not comprehend the feeling he is trying to cover up," Hunter said. "He is usually sensitive and insecure, but he acts callous and tough because he doesn't want anyone to know it.

"As long as we treat ignorance with punishment, we won't help the guy.

"If a grown man urinates in his pants and acts like a baby, he isn't punished by being put in diapers because it doesn't embarass him.

"The point is to get him to realize what playing the role of the baby is all the way. In fact, all this penitentiary is is a big babysiting operation."

Hunter said he treated more than 1,000 inmate-patients in his 12 years at the prison. And he said he could not recall one individual in his program who returned to the prison after being paroled.

"In 18 months to two years of treatment I can change their behavior. Right now, I've got one man who admits to eight different stabbings while in (prison). Here he's been nothing but a perfect gentleman."

But Harold Bradley, director of the state's adult corrections division, said, "We still have a basic commitment in this system to maintaining the dignity and sanctity of human beings."

Legal challenges to Hunter's methods were increasing. The practice of chaining patients was stopped by court order.

Hunter denied allegations that his attendants had acted as a goon squad, beating patients. Further, he said, none of his methods are as bad as they sound.

"We had one man here who burned up his mattress the first night he was here," Hunter said in a separate interview. "I put him on the bed so he couldn't hurt himself or others and because I wanted him there so he would be forced to do nothing but think."

The inmate's feet were chained and his arms handcuffed. Hunter said patients thus restrained could still move their limbs.

After five days of "think time," the psychologist said, the patient decided to act like "a full-grown adult."

Marlin or spearfish is the name of a group of large game fishes that live in the ocean. Related to swordfish and sailfish, their weight averages from 50 to 400 pounds and higher.

High risk cases to get flu shots in fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons considered high-risks for influenza will be vaccinated against swine flu this fall instead of this summer as previously planned, federal health officials say.

They blamed the delay on problems with vaccine production and the need for more tests.

Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control at Atlanta, said Wednesday the high-risk program would start shortly after Labor Day, at about the same time inoculations begin for normal adults.

High-risk persons are those over 65 years old, and people of all ages with chronic diseases, such as pulmonary problems and congenital heart defects. These people run more risk of dying or suffering serious complications from influenza than the rest of the population.

Two federal health advisory committees recommended this week that the $135-million vaccination program move ahead to immunize adults against swine flu as soon as possible. But they advised delaying shots for children and young people until more studies were made.

CDC authorities and others are mapping strategy this week at the National Institutes of Health for the massive inoculation program.

Sencer said vaccination of the young probably would begin by late fall or early winter following studies of what type of vaccine at what doses should be used. Results of the first human studies with swine-flu vaccines, disclosed earlier, said the shots appeared safe and effective for adults 24 or older.

However, side effects in children were higher than expected with the most effective vaccines. These side effects, such as mild fever and malaise, were not too serious, but researchers said there was time to develop a better vaccine program for younger persons.

The vaccine production problems surfaced a few weeks ago when the U.S. Public Health Service found that Parke Davis & Co. inadvertently made two million doses of the wrong vaccine. Officials said this delayed the national program by four to six weeks.

The Ford Administration last week sent Congress draft legislation that would indemnify the four vaccine manufacturers against liability for human injuries beyond their control caused by the vaccine.

Platform is placed

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — An 865-foot high oil production platform, the world's largest, has been placed in the Santa Barbara Channel by Exxon Corp.

The steel structure, which will stand as tall as New York's Rockefeller Center when the working decks are added, tilted slowly from its floating horizontal position to an upright stance as the lower legs were flooded Wednesday.

Oil production will not begin before 1978 because processing facilities have not been started. Exxon Corp. and the state Coastal Commission are embroiled in a dispute over how the oil processed at a proposed onshore facility in Las Flores Canyon will be transported to offshore tankers.

Exxon has filed suit in both state and federal courts alleging that only the corporation should be allowed to determine the feasibility of a proposed onshore pipeline.

Turkish firm is honored

The Sinlak Makina Manufacturing and Trading Corp. of Turkey is the recipient of a plaque for the company's continuing efforts to sell Wayne products in Turkey.

The plaque was presented to Husammettin Sinlak, president of the Turkish company, by E.O. Bill Williams, manager of FMC's sweeper division plant in Pomona.

Founded in 1966, Sinlak sells and services the entire Wayne product line to cities, municipalities and governmental agencies throughout Turkey. The company is currently planning an expansion which will help broaden distribution of FMC products.

Sinlak recently placed in service 10 Wayne model 707 runway vacuum sweepers for use by Turkey's Civil Aviation Administration.

Gets OK to build in flight path

A developer finally has the Upland City Council's approval to build 85 permanent homes in the flight path of Cable Airport.

The 4-1 vote by the council was a long-sought-for victory for Paul Nordberg of San Marino who has had his planned community development before the council for several years.

The same conditional use permit was denied at the May 17 meeting by a 2-2 vote when Mayor George Gibson was on vacation. But at that time, the council offered Nordberg the opportunity to continue the hearing until a full council was present.

Councilman Hal Bailin, who has vigorously opposed the development of the tract in the airport vicinity, reversed his stand and reluctantly supported the change.

In switching his stand, Bailin said:

"It appears this project is the only one which will get through. I don't think the city should slam this man back and forth any longer."

The single vote of opposition came from Councilman William Bottin who said he feels the development places the city in a position of facing possible lawsuits arising from noise of incoming planes.

Among the stumbling blocks which Nordberg had to overcome was getting approval of the West Valley Airport Land Commission which opposed the development in April but agreed to its construction later, adding several restrictions as to height of landscaping and soundproofing of the homes.

The 85 homes will be built on 19 acres on the north side of 14th Street between Mountain and Benson avenues. The development will have a parkway in the center and a zero lot line concept.

Nordberg's present plans evolved through a series of changes from a mobile home park which first won council approval in November, 1974. This concept changed next to prefabricated homes and, finally, to permanent homes.

In supporting the project, Mayor Gibson said "The project has improved considerably from what it started out to be."

Nordberg must begin construction by Aug. when his conditional use permit expires or, again, face the Upland council to seek an extension.

In other action, Upland council members approved zoning changes on 40 acres of land, all from agriculture to residential.

Both Bottin and Gibson expressed concern over growth in the city and the subsequent need for additional fire and police protection as the result.

Councilwoman Ina Petokas was highly critical of the airport land use commission and its attempts to add restrictions on two pending developments in the city which are somewhat in the vicinty of the Cable Airport.

"The commission has no guidelines, no technical input and no specific direction, yet they want us to impose restrictions on development which are not possible," Mrs. Petokas said.

"We can agree to noise attenuation factors added in homes but we can't tell the homeowner how he can landscape his home."

Goldwyn set catches fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six county fire companies were called out to battle a fire at a sound stage at the Goldwyn Studies in West Hollywood, officials said.

The Monday fire caused an estimated $2,000 damage and took 10 minutes to extinguish. There were no injuries, officials said.

Nationwide test

Radio clubs to signal the moon

Radio messages to the moon will emanate from a 1,500-foot peak within Forest Lawn Covina Hills Saturday and Sunday.

Most of the messages are expected to be acknowledged — on earth. They will be transmitted by members of the Aerojet Welfare and Recreation Amateur Radio Club and the San Gabriel Valley Radio Club during a nonstop 24-hour period from noon Saturday to noon Sunday.

Club members stationed on the Covina Hills peak will be participating in a nationwide emergency test of radio communications.

They will join 12,000 other ham operators throughout North America simultaneously participating in the same emergency practice procedures, said Frank Corsaro, of Pomona, president of the Aerojet club.

"In the event of disaster such as the Idaho Teton Dam break, ham radio communications are often the only link between stricken and affected areas," Corsaro noted.

The nationwide test is called "Field Day," a preparedness exercise for hams. Operators will pitch tents, erect antennas and start the gasoline driven generators for the 24-hour ordeal designed to perfect operating skills.

The clubs will be contacting other stations as close as across town or as far away as across oceans.

Besides messages to the moon, which are expected to bounce down accurately to individual ham operators on all seven continents, local members will also utilize two earth-orbiting satellites, Oscar 6 and Oscar 7. "With last year's performance as a yardstick, we expect to make more than 1,000 separate radio contacts in all 50 states and a dozen countries," said Corsaro.

The public is invited to watch the testing.

Claremont school board

Talks on teacher contract to resume

The Claremont school board will resume a hearing July 6 to give the public a second opportunity to comment on the Claremont Faculty Association's initial proposal for a master contract for teachers.

The board felt, after lengthy debate Monday night, that the public had not been given sufficient background on what kinds of questions could be asked legally under the newly-effective Rodda Act.

Dick Fass and Ralph Spaulding, representing Citizens for Quality Education, said they were confused by the limitations of the "sunshine clause" of the collective bargaining law which allows for the public to comment on salary proposals by teachers and classified personnel, but bans them from asking specific questions which might be considered part of negotiations.

Board President Arthur Steffen stressed that "we'll walk on eggs to follow the letter of the law."

"Any negotiations must be conducted in private," he said. "It's a real hairy area."

Noting that the teachers' proposal is of "immense importance," Spaulding began asking CFA Co-Presidents Chris Ulrich and Carol Frate questions about the proposal.

He said the CQE suggests public workshops on the contract because it is confusing to laymen.

He said that the CQE supports the concept of an educational development and liaison council, and that "citizen participation is essential."

But Steffen warned about the fine line which the Rodda Act draws as to what can and cannot be discussed in public.

When Spaulding began asking the co-presidents questions, Steffen said the questions would have to be directed through the board.

The board spent several minutes discussing what the public could say and could not say.

"Only questions of clarifications can be asked of the CFA," commented trustee Joseph Hough.

"At workshops," suggested trustee Robert Stafford, "someone could ask an individual: 'How do you see this?'"

"The public could go over the proposal line by line and make comments," board member Mary Ellen Kilsby suggested.

"We could answer clarification questions in good faith," said Mrs. Ulrich. "But we cannot in any way defend our contract.

"Many ask why questions are hard to answer. It depends on the intent of the question. Feelings could run very high."

Spaulding said that it should be clarified what a citizens committee would do. "I'm confused why we can't make this more open."

"It puts the teachers in a spot where they can't respond," Steffen said.

Mrs. Ulrich said that she and Mrs. Frate represent the organization but not the bargaining team for the teachers.

"There is no way there can be happy talk," Hough said. "Their bargaining team could be compromised because of the Rodda Act. Items that sound like negotiating cannot be discussed in public."

Mrs. Sue Keith, who had read the proposal, said that she was concerned about sabbatical leave for teachers, that such a practice is not found in private industry.

On sabbatical leave teachers receive half of their salary. The proposal is for a 20 per cent increase to 60 per cent.

In other matters, the board appointed business manager Charles Abbott, personnel service administrator Alex Hughes and El Roble Principal Ed Gaylord as the board representatives in labor negotiations.

Abbott was appointed as Claremont's member on the governing board of the Bonita-Claremont-Pomona Workers' Compensation Agency and Hughes as alternate member.

Jeff Daley, director of student activities at Claremont High the past two years, has been reassigned as assistant principal at Claremont High.

Raises granted to three administrators will give them the following salaries: Margaret Hodder, assistant superintendent for instructional services, $31,937; Hughes, $28,050; and Abbott, $33,572. The board adjourned its meeting at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday before considering a raise for district Supt. Richard Kirkendall.

The board also adopted a new salary schedule for those employes listed as classified confidential under the Rodda Act, such as secretary to the superintendent and secretary to the assistant superintendent.

DMV offers driver's licenses to inmates

A pilot project providing complete driver's license services for inmates ready for release on parole has been extended to include the California Institution for Men in Chino, Department of Motor Vehicles Director Herman Sillas has announced.

Sillas said the program that began June 8 is part of a regular area travel service of DMV's Pomona office at 211 Erie St. Services include taking driver's license applications, conducting drive tests, photographing and issuing licenses to successful applicants, said DMV Pomona office manager Lloyd Souders.

"This DMV service is just one additional step toward an individual's rehabilitation and successful reentry into society," Souders said. "Many times a driver's license is the first thing a former inmate seeking employment is asked for."

The Pomona office has set the second Tuesday of each month from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. for complete license services at CIM. Approximately 25 applicants are expected at each session.

Sounder added the full service project was an extension to an established motor vehicles program, providing inmates at Chino and Corona Rehabilitation Center with identification cards and driver's licenses renewals and duplicates.

He said the program at CIM was developed with the cooperation of Norma Harris, a Chino correctional parole officer.

The results of the CIM, CRC program will be used to determine if similar programs will be established in other state prisons.

Hertz strike is settled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-year pact has been accepted by rental agents for local Hertz Rent-A-Car agencies following a strike that lasted nearly a month.

A Teamster Union spokesman said the agents voted 53 to 40 Monday in favor of the new contract offer. The strike began May 24.

Under the agreement, the average employe wage will increase 45 cents an hour in each of the three years of the contract and other benefits will be improved as well.

Uplander named to Inspiron V.P. post

JAMES R. YARTER

Upland resident James R. Yarter has been appointed vice president of marketing with Inspiron Division of C.R. Bard Inc., Upland.

The promotion was announced by division President George T. Maloney. The division produces inhalation therapy products.

Yarter served as director of marketing for the division from 1974 to his promotion. He has been associated with C.R. Bard 10 years. He joined the company as a salesman.

Before joining the Inspiron Division, he was national sales manager for Bard's USCI Division, producer of heart catheters, cardiovascular prostheses and other diagnostic aides used in the cardiovascular field.

Yarter attended St. Lawrence University Canton, N.Y., and received a B.S. degree from Castleton State College, Castleton, Vt., in 1963. He is married and has three children.

C.R. Bard, Inc., is based in Murray Hill, N.J. It manufactures medical and surgical products.

Free energy

World production of geothermal power, in which the earth's heat is used to produce steam that drives generators, now totals about a million kilowatts. Geologists believe this could be increased tenfold, a pollution-free source of power that would be equivalent to burning a billion tons of coal.

What's going on around here

FETE FOR S.D. AIDE — A dinner in honor of Barbara Henderson, assistant city manager of San Dimas, will be held July 2 at the Via Verde Country Club, beginning with a 6:45 p.m. reception.

Mrs. Henderson recently submitted her resignation after 15 years of service to the city. She will take over duties soon as finance officer for the City of Irvine. During her years in San Dimas, she served as city clerk and director of finance before assuming the position of assistant city manager.

Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.75 per person and reservations may be made by calling San Dimas City Hall, 599-6713. Payment for tickets must be made in advance.

CHAFFEY NURSING GRADES — Members of the Chaffey College vocational nursing class of 1976 will be honored Friday in the college's Little Theater.

Mrs. Wilma Boetel of the Chaffey nursing staff will be the speaker at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. Completion certificates will be conferred by Dr. Lester Stroh, member of the college board of trustees and physician at Kaiser Hospital in Fontana.

Class members include Drusilla Propps, Cucamonga; Barbara Nicaise, Linda Garcia, Candi E. Alcala, Henry Gee, Fiona Kennedy, Terry Harris, Debbie Wilson, Linda Mardonis, Carol Zweifel, Myrthe Wynn, Alice Minkel and Shirley Longstreet, all of Ontario; Shawn Simpson, Upland; Marjorie Stricherz, Montclair; and Catherine Rubin, Chino.

FRISBEE CONTEST — The Chino Recreation and Parks Department will sponsor its annual Frisbee contest at all school district playgrounds the week of June 28.

Practice and registration is now underway and will continue until the day of the contest. Prizes will be awarded to winners.

A final contest will take place July 15, when winners from various playgrounds will compete for a city title. Categories will include first through third graders and fourth through sixth graders.

Interested students should contact the recreation leaders at the school they attend for more information.

WHITEHAIR NAMED EXECUTIVE — Former Chino resident Robert L. Whitehair, manager of the Palm Springs Airport, has been accredited by the American Association of Airport Executives and now has the title of airport executive.

Whitehair, a graduate of Damien High School in La Verne, earned the highest score ever given by the association on its two-day test and 5,000-word thesis, he said. Tests were administered in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Whitehair has a B.S. degree in political science and a master's in public administration from U.C. Riverside.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitehair of 11637 Telephone Ave., Chino.

AREA MEN ELECTED — Bill Broxterman of Diamond Bar, managing director of the California Credit Union League (CCUL), Pomona, was elected to the marketing committee of the Credit Union National Association (CUNA) at an association meeting in Denver, Colo.

Pomona resident Charles Sheline, a director of both CCUL and CUNA, was elected vice president of CUNA's international assistance, development and stabilization fund at the same meeting.

The fund listed assets of $1,076,532 at the end of 1975.

Broxterman, active in credit unions since 1952, joined CCUL in 1974 after working as executive assistant managing director of CUNA and director of CUNA's Washington office.

SCHOOL ACCEPTING STUDENTS — The La Verne Nursery School is accepting registrations for the 1976-77 session to begin in September.

Registration forms and brochures about the school are available from Mrs. Leona Ikenberry, 593-1364, or Mrs. Sue Dyer, 593-8559. Payment of a $5 registration fee reserves placement for the first 20 applicants in each class.

Those wishing to visit the nursery school at the Church of the Brethren at the corner of Bonita Avenue and E Street may call the school for an appointment through the Christian education office, 593-1364. The school has operated for 10 years and is licensed by the state. Two accredited teachers direct the program.

CLASS TO REUNITE — The Alta Loma High School Class of 1966 will hold a 10th-year reunion Aug. 7.

A reunion committee is planning details, and also attempting to contact class members.

Committee members can be reached at 987-1020 and 987-2026 or by writing Alta Loma High School Class of 1966, Box 454, Alta Loma 91701.

ALUMNI TO GATHER — Members of the Chino High School Class of 1966 will hold a 10th-year reunion Aug. 21 at the Ontario Elks Lodge.

The happy hour will begin at 6 p.m. followed by a prime rib dinner at 7. Dancing and a program are planned.

Cost is $12.50 per person or $25 per couple and includes a mini yearbook.

The class will hold a family picnic Aug. 22 at Chino High.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Nancy Fair VanDyke at 627-1191.

CHERRY ORCHARDS OPEN — Growers in Beaumont and Cherry Valley report the cherry crop is ripe and ready for picking.

Orchards are open to the public for self-picking. Growers supply ladders and pickets. Pickers are asked to bring containers for the fruit they take home.

Weekdays are recommended for less crowded conditions. An information booth is open on weekends at Beaumont Avenue and Cherry Valley Boulevard in Cherry Valley.

The orchards are 75 miles east of Los Angeles via Interstate 10 and routes 60 and 79.

LV. MAN ATTENDS SEMINAR — C. Stanton Harrison of La Verne recently attended a one-week financial training seminar conducted by Pioneer Western Corp. in Clearwater, Fla.

Harrison is associated with McCombs Securities Co., Inc. in Pomona.

It's definite! Claremont's parade to be held on Sunday

The city of Claremont, which enjoys hometown celebrations, will hold its annual Fourth of July program and parade Sunday, July 4 despite recommendations by the city Parks and Recreation Commission and local churches that this Bicentennial observance be held Saturday, July 3.

Applications are pouring in for the 4 p.m. parade open only to Claremonters.

Theme of the parade is "History is Here: Our 200th Year," and Betsy Ross and Uncle Sam characters will be grand marshals.

The city will join others across the nation in ringing bells at 11 a.m. to coincide with the ringing of the Liberty Bell at Philadelphia.

Harry Maxwell of the city's Bicentennial Committee will preside at the opening ceremony at Memorial Park.

Maxwell said that the churches also have been invited to ring their bells during the two-minute celebration.

The first entry in the parade is the Claremont Marching Kazoo Band, residents from the Memorial Park area.

Entry deadline is this Friday at 5 p.m.

Awards will go for the outstanding efforts in the following categories: sweepstakes; theme trophy; mayor's trophy; equestrian; heritage trophy for entry which best represents a part of the American heritage; boneshaker award for bikes and trikes; motor car award for any motorized vehicle not part of a float; and time and tune trophy for the best marching unit.

The parade will follow the route of past parades: starting at Yale Avenue west on 10th Street, south on Indian Hill Boulevard, east on Fourth Street, north on Harvard Avenue, west on 10th Street to Yale.

The evening entertainment will begin at Pomona College Alumni Field at 7 p.m. The fireworks show will start at 9:05 p.m.

Booths at Memorial Park will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Games and various activities will be held throughout the day.

The annual tiny tot bathing beauty contest will be held at noon at Memorial Park.

Garbage rates will rise in La Verne

Residents of La Verne will be paying more for their garbage collections this summer.

The City Council has agreed to pay 25 cents more per stop per month than it has been paying to Webster's Refuse Disposal Service of Baldwin Park, which has been collecting the city's waste for the past 10 years.

Harry Otting, president of the company, told the council that he is forced by inflation to increase his fees from $2 to $2.25 a month.

City Manager George Caswell said Otting has done a good job and that his request was reasonable.

The council approved the boost, and indicated it will pass it on to residents later this summer.

Two charges filed in high-speed chase

A Glendora man, who police said led them on a high-speed car chase on Foothill Boulevard late Friday mroning before being arrested, has been charged with reckless driving and drunken driving.

The complaint was issued Tuesday against Ernest Leonard Lusk, 54, of 2240 Country Club Drive, Glendora. Lusk presently is free on $2,500 bail.

La Verne police reported that the pursuit was along Foothill Boulevard eastbound toward Glendora at speeds of 100 to 110 miles an hour. Lusk had been in a dispute with a real estate agent in La Verne earlier, and sped into Foothill Boulevard where he was spotted and pursued, police said. He eventually was halted at Amelia Avenue and Country Club Drive in Glendora, they said.

Slow reader program gets fast results

Teachers at San Dimas High School are getting good results from slow readers through the introduction of a program that emphasizes the development of individualized instructions.

Principal Edward J. Weber says students who have been in the course have improved nearly twice as much as those who were not during the past year.

The program was begun under the direction of teacher William Josh Brown in 1973.

Using a diagnostic approach, reading teachers identified students who needed to improve their skills. Then the teachers, together with the students, mapped out individualized programs to develop skills found to be inadequate. The program stresses self-reliance, self-awareness and self-evaluation.

A rich supply of teacher-made games stresses work-attack skills and alphabetization.

According to Weber, the intensified program showed an average gain of 15 months in reading skills from September to May, compared with a normal expected gain of eight months for that period.

He says thge reading lab is now offered not only to those students who are below grade level, but to all students.

"Even the most capable students profit by elarning skimming, by increasing comprehension in critical reading, and by reading faster," Weber said.

An objective of the reading program is to help all teachers, not just those with English classes, to become increasingly aware of reading problems, and to guide students to the program.

Two Pomona men face kidnap charge

Two young Pomona men have been ordered into Superior Court to answer charges of kidnaping and robbery involving a pair of door-to-door salesmen.

The suspects are Ronald Shehee, 19, and Luther W. Sye, 22. They were bound over to Pomona Superior Court by Pomona Municipal Court Judge Thomas F. Nuss. Their arraignment date was scheduled for July 6.

Shehee and Sye are accused of being among five young men who kidnaped the victims, Thomas F. Starnes Jr., 24, of Whittier, and Victor A. Stevens, 23, of La Mirada, and robbed them before forcing them from their own van in Pomona June 2.

Two juvenile youths also have been arrested and have been petitioned to Juvenile Court. A fifth suspect is being sought.

Class in aiding heart victims

The Pomona Red Cross will offer training in a life-supporting technique for heart attack victims Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), a technique using rhythmic compression of the victim's chest alternated with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to provide heartbeat and respiration, will be taught by Red Cross certified instructors.

Heart attack, or cardiac arrest, is the cause of some 650,000 deaths annually in the United States. Many of these deaths occur needlessly because no one on the scene is knowledgeable in performing CPR, according to Red Cross officials.

The eight-hour course teaches the techniques of basic life support, awareness of early warning signs, risk factors and symptoms of heart attack.

Advanced registration is required and may be made by calling 622-1348.

Pomona Guard recruiting

Pomona's own California National Guard unit — Troop A, First Squadron, 18th Cavalry — currently is conducting a recuritment drive in preparation for its two weeks of summer encampment training.

Troop A is a multifaceted unit consisting of tankers, infantry, scouts, maintenance personnel and cooks.

Tankers will train in the newest tank, the M48A5, and will learn all phases of its operation, gunnery and maintenance.

Its rifle, scout and support mortar sections will conduct training with a variety of weapons.

The infantry and scouting units also will qualify in all phases of gunnery, scouting, map reading and communications.

Lt. Ronald Mascola, troop commander, said that Troop A is interested in having a full troop by the time summer encampment arrives.

More information on joining the National Guard may be obtained by phoning S-Sgt. Ray Medrano at 622-6118 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Sumn er victorious in first-aid contest

Sumner Elementary School has won the first "First Aid Happening" cosponsored by the Claremont Unified School District and the Claremont Red Cross.

The Sumner team of Jim Whitham, Jeff Ottaway, Shawn Wade, Martha Whitham, Pam Quinn and John Loper brought to their school for a year a perpetual Youth Health and Safety Award plaque donated by the Red Cross.

The Sumner team had competed with teams from Mountain View, Chaparral and Vista in a first aid skills test held at Vista School.

Judges specially trained in first aid were provided by the Claremont chapter and included two paramedics from county Fire Station 64 and members of the chapter's mobile unit teams.

School deficits reversed in Rowland

A tentative budget for the 1976-77 school year totalling over $22 million in expected costs has been submitted to the Rowland school board.

The proposed budget reverses three years of deficit financing by the district, according to Dick Angarola, assistant superintendent for administrative services.

Total anticipated costs for the district show an increase of $427,000 over the 1975-76 school year. Angarola reported that income from federal, state, county and local sources will exceed $23 million.

"Some of the funds will be used to restore the district's reserves," Angarola said.

Budget increases included such payroll related costs as retirement plan contributions and workers' compensation insurance. Other factors listed were costs pertaining to the growth in enrollment, plus a large increase in district fire and liability insurance.

To offset increases in costs, the budget proposal outlined a series of cost reductions totalling $818,000.

The school board will be asked to officially approve the tentative budget at its meeting Thursday.

MSAC board okays budget—with tax hike

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A tentative budget of $24,173,799, calling for a 3.55-cent tax increase, was approved by trustees of Mt. San Antonio College Wednesday night.

But the budget, about $1 million more than that of the current year, had trouble getting past the board the first time around, as members deadlocked 2-2 over its approval.

To balance the tentative budget, James Simpson, vice president in charge of business services, not only suggested raising the tax rate to $.7445 per $100 of assessed valuation, he also asked the board to dip into the district's reserve funds for $266,000.

This touched off a controversy among the trustees.

William Temple suggested that the board raise the tax rate by five cents, thereby eliminating the need to use reserves, contending that "it was unhealthy to keep dipping into the reserve fund year after year."

"It's better to take a nickel this year than to need a dime next year," he explained. "When the taxpayers are informed that we are going to raise the rates, they won't care much whether it's 3½ cents or five cents. Either way they'll be unhappy."

But board member Richard Todd said he preferred the compromise. He said he preferred to use money the district already had "that's just sitting there," rather than to levy more taxes.

He pointed out that the reserve fund was more than $3 million right now, three times as much as the board requirement.

Trustee Robert Hutchinson said he wanted to hold the line: no tax increases and no use of reserves.

"I think we are going overboard in our expenditures," he declared. "I think we should cut them back. I feel that with a $24 million budget we should be able to cut back another half million dollars somehow."

When it came to passage of the budget, Temple suggested the adjustment to reflect the five cent tax increase. He was supported by board member Clifton C. Booth, but opposed by Todd and Hutchinson. With Trustee Travis Manning absent, a deadlock developed.

Then Simpson pointed out that the board had "two more cracks" at the budget: one in July and another in August. Based on that information, the trustees passed the tentative budget with the 3.55 cent increase, 3-1 with Hutchinson dissenting.

Simpson blamed the deficit budget on urban redevelopment throughout the sprawling college district. He said the district was losing $92 million a year in assessed valuation because property was frozen for redevelopment, particularly in the City of Industry.

"They are bleeding us very slowly," he declared.

The budget as proposed includes nearly $700,000 to cover the five per cent salary increase the district has granted its employes for next year.

In that reard, the trustees approved a four per cent raise in pay for 29 administrators of the college, and agreed to let pay raises for some overload work become effective July 1 instead of Sept. 1.

The board will consider a publication budget July 14.

Walnut Open-space district

Chorus of criticism, weeds for councilmen

By PEGGY GONZALES
PB Staff Writer

Walnut councilmen approved a modified landscape and open space maintenance district Wednesday night but cost reductions of 17 per cent for one tract and 21 per cent for two others failed to pacify some people in an audience which overflowed the small council chamber.

One citizen tendered a bouquet of weeds to councilmen. There were no takers.

Another, William Christopherson of 1994 Calle Solis St., was asked by a plain clothes sheriff's officer to "step outside" at the request of Mayor Joe Cotten after frequent interruptions in proceedings.

As approximately 75 of some 100 citizens left the meeting after the decision, one person said, "We'll get you at the next election."

Another said, "What do you mean, election? Recall!"

Christopherson readily consented to leave the meeting. He returned later for an appeal hearing which revealed that Ceeco Development Corp. of Orange has purchased about 10 acres of the land in the city's civic center overlay zone and is in escrow for the purchase of the remaining 10 acres.

The council reduced costs to homeowners in the landscape and open space district by assuming administration costs. Residents were promised that someone would be available at the City Hall daily to take complaints about maintenance needs.

Based on a 17 per cent reduction, the 1976-77 cost to Grant tract property owners was cut from $111 to $92.60, $122 to $102 and $145 to $120 depending on the unit size.

In the La Solana tract, the cuts were from $124 to $115, $161 to $127 and $176 to $139.

Larwin Corp. tract cuts were from $42 to $33 and $47 to $37 in the Larwin tract.

The reduction in the latter two tracts was 21 per cent.

Four councilmen voted for the maintenance district. Richard Laughter was the dissenter. He said he thought maintenance should be the city's contribution for a year's time.

Councilman Joe Hahn said he had serious reservations about the character of landscaping and open space on the Larwin tract.

He said he felt special vertical growth should be required.

Slope maintenance was an issue which carried over into the appeal hearing on a tentative tract map for 10 acres being purchased by Ceeco from Daniel Vracin.

"We don't want to be bitten by that dog again," said Mayor Cotten.

George A. Chami, president of Ceeco, said the corporation was meeting 23 conditions set by the Planning Commission and was ready to meet a 24th.

The council approved the map with the added condition that a slumpstone wall be placed at the toe of a slope on Lemon Avenue instead of the top to guard against soil slippage.

Councilman William Wentworth appealed the planning decision approving the tract, saying the environmental impact assessment didn't meet general plan requirements of safe, healthful living conditions in connection with flood hazards; considerations of residential uses versus industrial uses in the area south of the tract; and street requirements.

The council failed to act on a $1,071,746 preliminary budget based on the current tax rate of 65 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The meeting was adjourned until 7 p.m. Monday for budget study.

3 imprisoned for A.L. bank robbery

Three Fontana men have been sentenced to 10 years in federal prison for robbing the First National Bank in Alta Loma March 19.

The trio, William Roger Yandell, 23; John William Watt, 24; and Michael Stephen Lunker, 20, were arrested by West End sheriff's deputies and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents minutes after leaving the Alta Loma bank with over $25,000 in cash. The suspects' truck was disabled by sheriff's officers gunfire.

The three, after pleading guilty to the federal bank robbery charges in May, appeared before U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson Monday for sentencing.

On March 19 the three men robbed the Alta Loma bank under the eye of federal agents and sheriff's detectives tipped off about the crime. The officers watched the men leave the bank and went in pursuit. During the pursuit the robbers ran one road block, forcing deputies to fire several shots at the pickup truck. The chase proceeded down Turner Avenue and across Foothill Boulevard in Cucamonga. It finally ended in a grape vineyard east of Archibald Avenue near Sixth Street when deputies unloaded a military carbine into the vehicle, disabling it. No one was injured in the pursuit.

Litter seminar is scheduled

The California Anti-Litter League will conduct an educational seminar Friday at the Holiday Inn in Ontario for valley mayors, city managers, public works directors and state legislators.

A litter-control program, called "Clean Community System" based on behavioral change techniques, will be explained. The program was developed by Keep America Beautiful.

George Ososk, league president, said efforts are being made to bring the program into California. The seminar will begin at 10 a.m.

Old businesses to be honored

Businesses which have been located in Pomona for 50 years or more will be honored by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce during its annual awards banquet July 1 at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly campus.

So far about 40 firms have been identified by the chamber as having been in the city for at least 50 years.

Persons who have information about such businesses are being asked to contact Barbara Rauch at the chamber at 622-1256 as soon as possible.

Construction women to meet

Betty Fitchner of the Southern Counties Gas Co. will address members of the Pomona Valley chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction tonight at 7 at the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

The group's nominating committee will report and new officers will be elected. Reservations may be made by calling Betty Genung at 981-1018 or 622-5403.

Sen. Cranston asks Carter to pull name off V.P. list

By PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Calling himself a "Senate man," Sen. Alan Cranston Wednesday asked Jimmy Carter to remove his name from the Democratic presidential front-runner's list of potential running mates.

Cranston made the request in a two-page letter and recommended Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley as two "eminently qualified Californians" for Carter to consider.

"I simply don't want to relinquish my present work as a senator, with all the independence and substantive opportunities that role offers, for the alternatives provided by the vice presidency," Cranston said.

"I really look upon myself as a senate man."

Cranston is running for assistant Senate majority leader.

An aide said the senator's bid for the position is being hampered by reports that Cranston is one of several politicians Carter is considering as a running mate.

That, doubled with recent rumors that Cranston's name is on a Carter list that has now been narrowed to five prospects, prompted the letter, the aide said.

Cranston addressed the matter in his letter, saying, "I've become convinced that speculation about my interest in the vice presidency is not helpful to my whip candidacy."

Cranston also pledged full support for Carter should the Georgian win the nomination, and served up Brown and Bradley as two westerners who could capture that region and California's 45 electoral votes.

"Both men have amply demonstrated not only heir high character and remarkable ability, but their great vote getting capacities as well," Cranston said. "I highly recommend them."

Body of missing man discovered in canyon

The body of a missing Baldwin Park man was discovered late Wednesday afternoon down an embankment off Highway 39 in San Gabriel Canyon.

The victim was identified by Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies as Herbert Liebert, 54.

Homicide investigators said this morning that the cause of Liebert's death was not apparent and must await an autopsy planned by the coroner's office.

They said that Liebert was reported missing June 14 by relatives who told Baldwin Park police that he had suicidal tendencies.

The body was discovered along the highway about two miles south of Coldbrook Canyon Ranger Station.

New info policy confuses hospitals

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Valley hospitals are confused by new recommendations from the California Hospital Association which may make it almost impossible for the public to learn about a patient's condition.

A check of five valley hospitals which have emergency room services shows that three will continue to release certain information to the news media while two others feel they can release no information without written permission from the patient.

The confusion has arisen following the release of a new CHA policy issued to member hospitals this month. The guidelines were prompted by a state law passed a year ago, It calls for written consent from a patient or guardian before a hospital may release any information about that person — including name, city, occupation, employer, sex, marital status and medical condition.

Lynn Rogers, public information officer at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, said hospitals which have professional public relations staffers should have no difficulty.

"We have always followed certain guides to protect the patient and the family while, at the same time, releasing information which the public has a right to know.

"It's important that the media is informed in many cases, and, after all, the hospital is in the position to release more accurate information than other sources might be."

Rogers added that most hospitals already adhere to one of the two major restrictions of the CHA code, that no information be released concerning psychiatric patients or drug or alcohol abuse patients.

The second main restriction under the code is that no information may be released concerning other patients unless written permission of the patient or guardian is obtained.

"Until some of the code is better clarified, PVCH will continue to release the basic condition about the patient in the standard definitions we have used in the past — good, fair, serious or critical," Rogers said.

He added that a meeting is scheduled by CHA and hospital public information officers Thursday in Sacramento to discuss the code.

Calvin Good, administrator at Park Avenue Hospital in Pomona, said he was "adopting a wait and see attitude at this point." But, Good added, the hospital will continue to release the basic information to the news media which it has done in the past.

"After all, a police report shows where an accident victim was sent for care," Good said. "We have a responsibility to complete the accident information accurately.

"We feel the public has a right to know, within certain limits."

Dick Holden, public information officer at Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina, said the hospital is still awaiting some clarification of the code.

"Meanwhile, we'll continue our cooperation."

Public men's private lives

The thing that has angered many people in what is building into Congress' own Watergate is not that this congressman or that senator has indulged in sexual hijinks in Washington but that they may have done it at taxpayer expense — not that they have played hanky-panky with aides or secretaries or other willing or unwilling persons but that they may have maintained their paramours on the public payroll solely or mainly for their sexual talents.

The phrase one hears frequently is, "What they do on their own time and with their own money is their own business, but it's my business when they use my taxes."

But is the private life of a public person strictly his own business, whether or not the misappropriation of public money is involved? Can we so neatly compartmentalize life that what a man does on the floor of Congress or in his office in the daytime and what he does elsewhere at night have no connection with each other?

Society, let it be said with a sigh of thanks, is far more liberal than it once was. We no longer require the spinster schoolmarm, at least in our more enlightened communities, to lead an utterly sexless and boyfriendless life. An illegitimate child or liaison in a politician's past is no longer cause for ruination of a career — indeed, it may even enhance a career these days.

It is astonishing to realize that it was only a decade or so ago that the author of a best-selling novel about Washington had one of his characters, a junior senator, commit suicide when he was threatened with the revelation of a homosexual episode that allegedly took place (it didn't) in his earlier life. Today, in one of the latest stories to come out of our national den of iniquity, we are told that some congressmen have been forcing their sexual attentions on male as well as female employes!

Yet if hypocrisy is the tribute vice pays to virtue, hypocrisy also demands its tribute (a truth J. Edgar Hoover, with his famous dossiers on famous people, is said to have known full well).

A definite price is paid if a man's acts and utterances in public are at odds with his private behavior and beliefs: by himself, in cynicism and self-contempt, if he is not totally amoral; but far more importantly, by society at large in an eventual, almost imperceptible, deterioration of its moral standards. And by moral standards is meant not merely sexual behavior but honorable behavior in all its forms.

The most distressing aspects of the current scene in Washington is not the breaking of the Seventh Commandment. It is the deception, the lying, the self-serving rationalizing that has accompanied this as it has accompanied every other scandal, from burglary and bugging to payroll kickbacks.

We have a couple of choices. We can acknowledge the "facts of life" and relegate old-fashioned sexual morality to the curiosity shop of history along with celluloid collars and ankle-length dresses. That would be one way of abolishing hypocrisy. Or we can demand that politicians adhere to that morality, with no exceptions, or suffer the political consequences.

Neither option is likely. Rather, we will cluck our tongues while secretly savoring the spicy details of the Great 1976 Sex Scandal, and at the same time expect that some sort of tribute be paid to virtue. A few men will fall from high places. Then things will go back to normal until the next scandal breaks.

Even so, many Americans are going to be doing some hard thinking when they go to the polls in November — about the kind of men who represent them in Washington and the kind of men they want to represent them, about the kind of country they want this nation to be.

Economy barrel

In case you've ever wondered why a barrel of oil holds 42 gallons instead of some nice round number, or even if you haven't, National Geographic Society researchers who specialize in odd bits of intelligence have come up with the answer.

It stems from the fact that back in the 19th century, oil was transported in wooden, 50-gallon barrels that leaked an average of eight gallons during shipment and storage. Which at least is more logical than the explanation that a yard is 36 inches long because it happened to be the distance between King So-and-so's nose and his outstretched fingertip.

One trusts that in these days of high-priced oil the leakage factor is minimal.

Thoughts

Proclaim this among the nations: Prepare war, stir up the mighty men. Let all the men of war draw near, let them come up. Beat your plowshares into swords and your pruning hooks into swords; let the weak say, "I am a warrior." — Joel 3:9,10.

"There is no nation on earth so dangerous as a nation fully armed and bankrupt at home." — Henry Cabot Lodge, American statesman.

Florida farmer who exploited labor faces federal probe

WASHINGTON — The cumbersome federal machinery is beginning to move at last against A. Duda and Sons, whose vast agriculture empire has mistreated its lowly stoop laborers.

Last March, we sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to southern Florida to investigate the plight of the migrant farm workers. Posing as a young drifter, he was picked up off the street of Immokolee, Fla., and put to work in the fields of A. Duda and Sons.

He found the workers living in virtual bondage. They put in long, hot hours harvesting the farm's massive crop of ripening tomatoes. But nearly every dollar they earned went to pay for the overpriced food and illegal booze which Duda's strawboss provided.

Bernton's eyewitness accounts created a storm of controversy when we published them. Florida newspapers called for reforms, which were introduced in the Florida legislature.

But in Washington, the bureaucrats at the Labor Department merely squirmed uncomfortably and worried about how to stop the unpleasant publicity. Little was done to help the field hands whom the department was supposed to protect.

Now the situation is slowly reversing. The legislation to aid the migrant workers has been suppressed in Florida and the federal authorities are preparing to crack down on A. Duda and Sons.

A federal investigation of Duda's farming operations has largely confirmed our allegations. Ronald J. James, who is in charge of federal employment standards, has reported "substantial violations of both the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Farm Labor Contractor Act."

The federal investigators, for instance, uncovered "excessive charges for food and beverages." If these charges hold up in court, the Duda farm could be forced to close down its labor camps and pay back wages to its workers.

But the reform campaign has bogged down in Florida. At the request of State Sen. Jack Gordon, we sent Bernton to Tallahassee to testify about his experiences among the stoop laborers. He found the plush, red-carpeted hearing room packed with migrant farm workers.

Men, women and children had taken off a precious day from their field work and had driven all night to attend the hearings.

The growers and their lawyers were also in attendance. They huddled together in small knots. They wore expensive suits and jeweled wristwatches. Most of the field hands never owned a suit and can't afford a wristwatch.

House Agriculture Chairman Wayne Mixon rapped for order. One by one, the growers told how rosy life was down on the corporate farms. There was no need, they declared, for any additional legislation. Indeed, the bill could "kill the goose" that laid Florida's "golden eggs," they warned gravely.

One committee member was so impressed that, without waiting to hear the opposing testimony, he declared his fealty to the growers. He would vote against the reform bill, he announced.

Some of the witnesses attacked our column. We had published "oversensationalized accounts," they charged, of conditions on the Duda acres.

Bernton responded with an eyewitness report on the oppression he had found. He produced additional testimony that Duda had previously employed two vicious strawbosses to oversee the labor camp, one now convicted of manslaughter, the other himself murdered by a migrant worker in North Carolina.

Bernton also revealed that the Florida Rural Legal Service had discovered nine illegally employed Haitians at another Duda camp, living in a miniscule, 10-by-20 foot cabin. Each Haitian was being charged $42 a week for meager meals of oxtail, cornbread, rice and beans.

The strawboss had threatened to send the police to arrest workers who tried to leave the camp before they had paid off their "debts." Some workers who had escaped the camp were tracked down and coerced back into camp by the strawboss.

After Bernton sat down, the farm hands themselves stepped up to the rostrum to tell about the conditions they worked under. The committee responded by voting unanimously to kill the reforms.

The migrant workers didn't seem surprised. They slowly shuffled out of the hearing room and made their way to a nearby church where they dined upon beans and soup.

The plight of the migrant workers has never attracted much attention in the Florida legislature. The Agriculture Committee members have been too busy with the problems of the large planters. In some cases, the members are large planters.

PENTAGON SECURITY: The new security sign on the door of the Defense Intelligence Agency's office at the Pentagon shows the Little Rascals gang gathered around the clubhouse table.

The black-and-white caption cautions Pentagon employes: "Any discussion of classified information at lunch and our security officer will shoot a hole through your peanut butter sandwich."

WATCH ON WASTE: Coal companies will save millions of dollars at the taxpayers' expense if the Army Engineers have their way.

Millions are going into the mammoth Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, which may turn out to be the biggest boondoggle of the decade before it is completed.

The Tenn-Tom project, as it is known less formally, will be a connecting canal along the Alabama-Mississippi border. Already, a staggering $1.8 billion construction bill has been run up.

The purpose of the waterway ostensibly is to cut freight transportation costs. Coal will be the main commodity that will be hauled on the canal. Army engineers estimate that the coal traffic will reach 40 million tons a year when the waterway operates at full capacity.

This means the private coal companies, which will pay nothing for the use of the waterway, will get their transportation costs subsidized by the taxpayers to the tune of millions.

About half the coal that travels on the canal won't even be used in this country but will be shipped overseas. The Army Engineers contend that the coal exports will help the national trade balance and will create additional employment.

Oil firms taking blame for high prices from politicians

WASHINGTON — Great numbers of Americans believe that the oil industry is monopolistic and corrupt. There could be as many as 50 or 60 United States senators among those numbers.

High energy prices and secretive business operations coupled with the scandal of illegal corporate contributions and huge pay-offs to foreign countries are probably the biggest contributors to this distrust.

It is easy to understand how "Joe Public" could be mislead by factors such as those mentioned, but it is beyond belief that the men who make the final decisions are so ill informed.

The whole business community is suffering because of the contributions and pay-off problems, not just the oil industry.

High prices are the result of OPEC price hikes and not some giant collusive activity by the oil industry.

Last week a Senate committee voted to bring before the entire body a measure which would force the 18 largest oil companies to get rid of all but one of their facets of oil production, refining, transporting and marketing.

What chance that measure has of passing is hard to say, but last year 45 senators voted for a similar amendment.

Proponents of the vertical divestiture bill claim their action isn't vindicative, but a leading sponsor, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has proclaimed, "If there is one symbol of the establishment ripping off the people of this country, it is the oil companies."

For some reason the senators and Americans that favor divestiture of the major oil companies believe that smaller companies can do a more efficient job of producing, refining and marketing oil.

They also believe that these smaller companies would bargain harder with OPEC cartel.

Their logic for these beliefs has something to do with the small companies needing to make a profit and at the same time be competitive with the other small companies.

If they're not certain divestiture will work they are certain that the present system is non-competitive. No matter that there are more than 10,000 different companies exploring for oil and natural gas, or that there are some 130 companies operating refineries.

Proponents point out that the top eight oil companies control 51.8 per cent of the gasoline market, 42.1 per cent of the production and 51 per cent of the refining.

What they ignore is that the average per cent of the market for the top eight in the U.S. manufacturing industry is 60 per cent.

The real drive behind the effort to break up the oil companies comes from a need to place the blame for higher oil prices and what politician could ever take the blame?

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

A news item recently stated that a glass firm in Phoenix, Ariz., paid five of its employes approximately $500 each for quitting smoking. Which is just fine and dandy. But what, I wonder, did they pay the non-smokers who were also working for them? I'll give you odds of ten to one that it was a big fat zero. Which, of course, is par for the course. The do-gooders in this world never miss an opportunity to reward prodigal sons and repentant sinners.

However, it isn't only the prodigal sons and repentant sinners who get the easy money handouts. Big business, more often than not, is also the recipient of gratuitous financing. In New Stanton, Pa., the city fathers are proposing to put up approximately $200 million to help finance the first Volkswagen plant in the United States. — But when, I ask you, did any City Father ever offer to finance your hamburger stand, or hardware store, or set you up in business in a modern, brand new shop?

State budget has exploded

Prominent at the annual reunion of former members of the Legislature were some who had been key figures in the budget battles waged during the administration of governor Culbert L. Olson. Among them were Gordon Garland, Frederic F. Houser, Gardiner Johnson, Mel Cronin and Don A. Allen. They had been part of the "economy bloc" which bitterly contested Olson's proposed budget and enforced severe cuts.

Also present was F. Ray Bennett and Hugh M. Burns who had been among the loyalists defending Olson.

The fight provoked by Olson's budget was one of the hardest in legislative history and resulted in the overthrow of the Assembly leadership of Olson supporter Paul Peek with his being supplanted as Speaker by Garland.

The oldtimers couldn't help but chuckle in their reminiscence of those days.

Olson had presented a budget of $557 million to run the state for two years! He was violently attacked as a spendthrift who wanted to spend "over a half billion dollars"!!!

Compared to the $13.5 billion state budget today Olson was a piker and should have been tossed out of office for being so miserly in the face of the dire depression day needs of the state.

And when one considers the difference between Olson's proposed budget and the amount the economy bloc was willing to approve it becomes even more laughable. The net savings was less than the Legislature today spends each year upon itself.

This year the legislature is viewing an anticipated surplus of more than $800 million and treating it as nothing more than some loose change.

Defenders of the multi-billion dollar budget talk of inflation and population growth. In fact, government at all levels within the state having been using those crutches ever since WW II to justify their spending.

True, California has grown greatly. But not anything to account for the budget multiplying from $250 million in 1940 to 54 times that at its present figure.

Even if government growth could be justified in growing at the same rate as population expansion, a fallacy insofar as necessity, the budget should not be more than three times what it was in 1940. For the population then stood at 7 million against the 21 million now.

As for inflation, one may debate the value of today's dollar versus the 1940 dollar but some stable indexes such as gasoline have only tripled in that time, mostly due to increased taxes. In any event inflation would have had to amount to a fantastic 1850 per cent to account for the budget increase, the population factor included. No one has yet contended the dollar has depreciated anything near that.

The fact is that population growth has bred unwarranted and disproportionate growth in government far beyond any conceivable proper ratio of public workers to population. And the growth of budgets has bred a careless attitude towards spending.

The oldtimers recalled how they served for $100 a month in those days. Undoubtedly the parsimony of the salary influenced their tight approach to the purse strings.

No one is watching the nickels and dimes these days like the old economy bloc. They aren't even watching the billions!

Ann Landers

More than one way to play

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a duplicate bridge player who loves the competition of the game to the point of addiction. Every Thursday he leaves at 7:30 p.m. and they play till 11 or 11:30. After duplicate, the players go to a club next door and unwind with a drink or two. Recently I found out they have live music and dance.

I am sitting home trying not to let it bother me, but when my husband comes strolling in at 2 a.m., I'm not very pleasant — to perfectly frank.

I've tried playing duplicate, but I can't take bridge that seriously. He plays with a different partner every week, both men and women, all kinds of people — old, young, divorced, etc.

I don't like being a jealous wife, but that's exactly what I am. He's a good provider and we have raised two fine children in the 25 years we've been married, but I hate Thursdays. He behaves like an eager little boy who is going to a party. Any advice for me, Ann? — Slow Boil In Boise

Dear Boil: Yes, go the party with him. Take a good book, your needlepoint, correspondence that needs answering, anything to keep you occupied while he does his number. Then, when the game breaks up, you can join the "eager little boy" at the club next door and enjoy the live music, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Now that summer is here, great numbers of people will be taking off for vacations. May I pass on some advice to your readers out of my own personal experience?

PLEASE, when you leave town, let someone know where you can be reached at all times. My wife and I do a lot of camping and are gone anywhere from a weekend to 10 days. Last summer we took a three-day trip and didn't think it was necessary to let anyone know where we were going. We left on Friday. The following morning my brother-in-law was killed in a car accident.

The family didn't know how to get in touch with us. The police couldn't help. They had no idea which of the thousands of compounds we might be camping in. We returned home just in time for the funeral. My wife and I were heartsick to think we weren't around when we were needed.

So please, folks, leave your itinerary with someone, or phone a member of the family every couple days — just to check. It costs very little and the peace of mind is well worth it. — No Longer Lost

Dear N.L.: Your letter is additional proof that the only thing we can count on in this life is the unexpected. In some instances there is no way of protecting ourselves, but when we CAN we should. Thanks for the reminder.

Dear Ann Landers: I need some information about blood tranfusions. When a person needs a transfusion after surgery, is there any identification as to the race of the person who donated or sold the blood? I know the bottles have the type of blood on the label, but how does a white patient know whether or not he or she is getting Negro blood? Thank you. — Concerned

Dear Concerned: There is no such thing as "Negro blood." All humans have one of four types of blood — A, B, AB, and O. I know of no hospital that labels blood according to race.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Verse created baseball greats

Am asked if shortstop Tinker, second baseman Evers and first baseman Chance were really the greatest double-play artists in baseball history. Not at all. Numerous other combos did better. What put "Tinker to Evers to Chance" into the public forefront was a widely publicized verse by newspaper columnist Franklin P. Adams. Incidentally, did you know that Tinker and Evers refused to talk to each other for many years even though they still played well together?

Question repeatedly arises as to which are the more intelligent, blondes, redheads or brunettes. Don't know for sure. Do know that tests given by a pair of scholars who themselves are natural blondes indicate that natural blondes tend to be the brighter.

DOCTORS

Q. "Do lady doctors earn as much money as the men doctors do?"

A. Not according to the most recent statistics. In this country, the average physician, whether male or female, gets $54,140 a year. But the average female doctor only earns $33,120 a year.

Don't know how many the number 20 trillion represents, but that's how many human births occur between those octuplet births wherein a mother has eight babies at once. It happened in 1967 in Mexico, definitely. And it reportedly happened, too, in 1955 in Argentina, in 1947 in China, in 1934 in China, and in 1921 in Mexico.

CAPRICORN

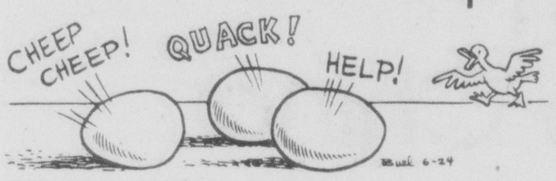

The Capricorn, says our Zodiac man, tends to be ambitious, idealistic and a bit of a perfectionist . . . Life insurance is no more expensive for a professional airline pilot than it is for a bookkeeper . . . The farmer who grows those canned beets get only about seven cents of the dollar you pay for them . . . Nine out of 10 police forces in this country employ fewer than 10 fulltime officers . . . Claim is that those few people who know the secret formula for Coca-Cola are never permitted to ride on the same airplane.

Not many animals can grow new eyes if they lose the ones they started out with, but the snail can. Its eyes are on the ends of its little horns. It can see around corners, therefore, the rascal.

Dogs trained to help the blind have been around a long time. So why doesn't anybody train dogs to help the deaf? Such a dog could inform you when the telephone rings or the doorbell chimes or the alarm clock goes off. Instead of barking at an intruder, it could be taught to warn you by grasping your wrist in its teeth. And if someone out of your line of vision were trying to talk to you, that dog could let you know with a nuzzle or whatever.

Dr. Lamb

Unhatched duck able to cheep

DEAR DR. MILLER: Duckett, her pet duck, and my daughter are very close. She hatched it and has always claimed he was talking to her the day before he hatched. I think a child is entitled to her fantasies, but the idea of unhatched birds sitting around chatting, well, they don't really, do they? — C.H.

DEAR C.H.: Sit around? Certainly! What else can an egg do? Eggs aren't brilliant conversationalists, true, but occasionally fowl cheeps may be heard from chicken or duck eggs within a day of hatching.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Just read a scary thing about lead poisoning in children. They were hyperactive physically and underactive mentally. I've no children to worry about, thank goodness, but I do have a young dog who fits the above description. I'm getting him in to the the doctor to see if that's it, but where could a puppy possibly get lead poisoning? You can bet this one of mine has never had a chance to chew on old linoleum or old paint or that sort of stuff. Where else? — F.L.

DEAR F.L.: The slow accumulation of lead in small quantities within the body is more likely in children than in puppies. More time is involved for lead buildup. Even so, the potential for poisoning is there in pets and other animals as well as people. Sources for this chronic type of lead poisoning range from some commercial dog and cat foods to some contaminated water supplies, and of course the polluted area itself. In cases, and they're not uncommon enough, where the food, drink and air are all polluted with, among other things, lead, body buildup of this poison may not take long. Long before hyperactivity and mental impairment occur, damage to enzyme systems can harm the body's vital immune systems, increasing susceptibility to bacterial and viral infections.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's not an earth-shaking problem, so I'll make it short. My cat has a single white whisker, the rest are black, on each side. I've heard white hairs may be due to injury? — F.U.

DEAR F.U.: A small patch of a few white hairs on a non-white cat often is the result of injury to that localized skin area. Injury involving a single hair follicle, certainly in such a paired (bilateral) condition, would be highly unlikely. Odds are your cat's white whiskers came to him genetically, not accidentally.

General store still with us

People are always mourning the passing of the old general store, that wonderful meeting place in the old West where you could buy a chain saw and a dozen eggs, a length of calico or kerosene for the lamps.

I've never been sure in my mind that it disappeared.

As my husband and I put away the groceries the other day he said, "Where do you want the salt for the water softener?"

"In the garage. The kids can lug it around to the side yard."

"And the garden hose and the charcoal lighter?"

"On the porch."

"Hey, you got a lot of 'goodies' this week," he said, pulling out a pair of men's sandals.

"I know. We were out of everything. Wanta put these bath towels on the dining room table? I'll run them back when we finish unpacking. But the prices," I added. "I don't know how big familes afford to eat. Here, put these lightbulbs in the drawer. I did get a good buy on underwear this week — three for $4."

"Did you check on the car seat that was in the ad?"

"Yeah, but I think I can do better at another supermarket across town."

"Ummm . . . This looks yummy, what is it?"

"A bundt pan. Got that special coating on it so the cake won't stick. Makes your mouth water, doesn't it?"

"Why candles? You know they're more expensive when they're out of season."

"I know, but I just craved to see those green ones in the dining room."

"I hope you got there early enough to get the plants while they were fresh."

"They were a little picked over, but I found a great dieffenbachia. In fact, I had Ralph divide them into two pots so I can give mother one and use the other myself. I love a store that has a garden man. None of those pre-packaged deals."

"Incidentally," said my husband, "what's for lunch?"

I shuffled through the greeting cards, zippers, anti-freeze, dark glasses, pots, pans, insecticide, paperbacks, and clothesline and finally said, "You wanta run down to the store and get some lunch meat? And don't get distracted by things we can't eat!"

Stomach can't absorb B-12

DEAR DR. LAMB — Because of an ulcer I had part of my stomach removed 15 years ago at age 60. I was told years afterward that my stomach could not absorb vitamin B-12 and that I should have an injection once a month which I have been doing. At first they seemed to improve my well being but now it seems to make little difference. It is possible that I am now able to absorb B-12 from food and vitamins? Am I taking too much or too little in your opinion? I'm fairly active for my age, do not smoke and take alcoholic drinks rarely.

DEAR READER — Inability to absorb vitamin B-12 resulting in pernicious anemia is a common complication of removal of a major portion of the stomach. Why? Because the stomach forms a substance called intrinsic factor that combines with the B-12 to enable it to be absorbed. One cause of pernicious anemia is the loss of the stomach's ability to form instrinsic factor. This is frequently accompanied with a decrease or absence of the formation of normal stomach acid.

After surgery the stomach may gradually increase in size again and there is a certain amount of regeneration. What happens depends a lot on how much of the stomach was actually removed. It is possible that you no longer need to take vitamin B-12 shots but the only way to find out is to let your doctor test you.

I would not recommend stopping B-12 unless your doctor tells you it would be all right to do so. Absence of B-12 could lead to permanent damage to nerve tracts in your spinal cord and other complications. These changes could slip up on you without you being aware of any changes.

The reason you need to have the injections is that they get the B-12 directly into your body. When the stomach fails to produce intrinsic factor and you can't absorb B-12 properly, swallowing the B-12 will not get it into your bloodstream and it is simply lost.

To give you more information about B-12 I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can anything be done about a person who snores? My husband has, I believe, about the loudest snore possible. The only way I have found to stop it is to have him lie on his side and close his mouth, but sometimes he starts snoring again soon after I've stopped him.

It is not unusual to have this happen three or four times a night, particularly if he is very tired. I hate to keep waking him up, but it is the only way I can get any sleep. Is there any other answer to this problem?

DEAR READER — Snoring occurs with mouth breathing and is most common when the person is sleeping on his or her back. Sometimes mouth breathing is related to obstructions of the nose and some of these can be corrected.

More often it is a habit. I read a good suggestion recently that you can try. Strap a ping pong ball or other object to the small of the back or tape it in place. That will keep him off his back and give you some sleep.

In some cases the couples find it is just better to have separate bedrooms so they can both get some sleep.

What people say

"Fundamentally, high schools today are disaster areas for many of their students. If you look at them in terms of what they're supposed to do, in terms of their own stated goals, in terms of what the welfare of society actually requires, or in terms of the cost that they represent, they simply aren't cutting it." — Prof. Cordon Hoke of the Center for Instructional Research and Curriculum Evaluation at the University of Illinois.

"Business today makes more demands, has more regulations and more complications, calls for more and better products, more start-to-finish creativity, better dollar value for consumers and, above all, credibility in your claims. It's a different ball game." —Jerome S. Mann, president of Calvert Distillers Co.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Friday, June 25

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your attention span could leave a little to be desired today. Try not to clutter up the house with half-finished projects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't get mixed up in anything financial today that you have doubts about. If you have second thoughts, heed them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you get into a situation today that calls for your personal managerial touch, be very decisive in any moves you make.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Handle any high priority matter promptly. The more you dawdle, the less chance you have of settling it effectively.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) While you'd like to think that wishes make it so today, you know better. If you want something to happen, you must make it happen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to only partially develop your possibilities today if you let self-doubts creep in. Don't be afraid to err.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't hesitate to state what you have on your mind today. In doing so, say exactly what you mean.

SCORPIO (Oct.4-Nov. 22) Don't be pressured into buying something you don't want today. Keep in mind, the money comes out of YOUR pocket.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In situations involving teamwork, don't leave everything up to your partner. The more hands, the lighter the work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a tendency today to underestimate the value of your work or skills. Someone who knows their true worth could take advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're an interesting person. Usually, others enjoy what you have to say. That's not an excuse, however, to monopolize every conversation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be fortunate today in negotiations with persons with whom you have strong emotional ties. Dealing with strangers may not turn out so well.

Your Birthday June 25

Things will be perking up for you on the social scene this coming year. The interesting people you'll meet will lead you to other new friends.

Opening lead — Q ♥

One thing that I learned about match point play at a very early stage in my bridge career was to study both my contract and possible other contracts.

Thus, when dummy hit the table I saw that at least half the field would be in four spades. We really should have been there also. I should have raised my partner to two spades instead of bidding one notrump.

The normal play in spades would be for declarer to ruff a heart and play West for the queen of spades. He would make five if West held that card and four if East held it.

I also noted that if I played West for the spade queen I would wind up making one trick less than the spade declarers and have a poor score.

Accordingly, I won the heart in dummy, led dummy's jack of spades and let it ride. This enabled me to pick up East's queen of spades, collect 10 tricks and a top score, since the rest of the field made either four spades or just three notrump.

Ask the Jacobys

A Vermont reader wants to know our rebid with:

♠ K x x ♥ x x ♦ K J x ♣ A J 9 x x.

We have opened one club and partner has responded one spade.

We have no problem. We raise two spades. We don't like the idea of bidding one notrump with the worthless doubleton in hearts. If partner has only four spades and a weak hand it will be no tragedy to play two spades with four opposite three. If he has a good hand he is not going to bid four spades unless he has a good spade suit.

Two rabies clinics scheduled in Upland

Rabies clinics for dogs will be held at the Upland Police Department next on Wednesday and Thursday.

The hours on Wednesday will be from 1 to 2:30 and 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday hours are only from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The rabies vaccination fee is $2.

Persons obtaining rabies vaccinations for their dogs will be required to purchase an Upland dog license at the same time. Vaccinations at the clinics will not be honored for licenses at any other time or place.

License fees are $6 for unspayed females, $3 for spayed females, $4 for unaltered males and $2 for altered males. Written proof of spaying must be presented at the time of licensing.

Persons who own dogs which do not require vaccinations this year may obtain their licenses at the Upland Police Department beginning Thursday.

Parking and lighting improved at DMV

The Pomona office of the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) at 211 Erie St. has been renovated, providing better lighting, a new drinking fountain and more public parking space.

Office Manager Lloyd F. Souders said parking slots were increased from 22 to 88 and include eight additional motorcycles parking spaces.

Exterior improvements include landscaping and a number of planters, he said.

The building interior has been repainted.

Annually the Pomona office handles 130,000 registration transactions and processes 50,000 drivers licenses.

It is staffed by 34 full-time and part-time employes with language fluency in English, Spanish, German and Dutch.

Souders said the office still is soliciting local artists to complete an office mural with a transportation theme. DMV will pay supply costs, he said. Interested artists may contact him at 629-3055.

Massage parlor licensing bill okayed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to permit local licensing of massage parlors and their employes has won approval of the California Assembly.

The Assembly sent the bill to the Senate Thursday on a 56-6 vote.

The author, Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, said it would permit cities and counties to require masseuses to pass competency tests and prove that neither they nor their employers have been convicted of prostitution or drug offenses.

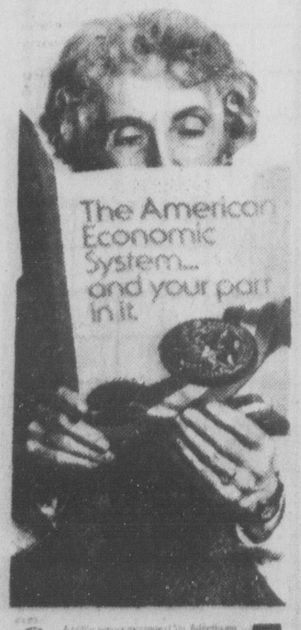

McAlister said he only wants to regulate massage parlors, not run them out of business.

The courts have invalidated several local massage parlor licensing ordinances.

It is AB 3325.

Does America need more government regulation? Or less?

Norse used raven guides

NEW YORK (AP) — When the ancient Norse explorers set out to sea they often carried a cage full of ravens in their long boats.

According to "Navigation" (Time-Life Books), the Vikings did this because they lacked a compass and "at periodic intervals when they felt they might be near land a bird would be released and the direction of its flight would guide the Norsemen west to discover Iceland and, in succeeding generations, to Greenland and North America."

Holden added that different situations require specific handling, and that, in any case, no detailed information is released to the media without permission of the patient.

"We are staying within the letter of the law," said Mary Riley, public information officer at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

"Changes in the code have been duplicated and distributed, but, no official action has been taken at this time."

Asked if this meant that the hospital would no longer give out the basic condition of the patient, Mrs. Riley snapped:

"Haven't you read the code? We are following it to the letter."

Dean Garrison, administrator at Chino General Hospital, said he has typed a press release for reporters and other media personnel explaining the hospital's position at this point.

"Our new position does not reflect any lack of spirit of cooperation," said Garrison, "But we feel that we can no longer release any information about a patient without written permission.

"We can only confirm that the patient is in the hospital, or, in some accident cases, that he was treated here and released.

"Of course, information on psychiatric or drug or alcohol abuse patients was never released. But, without written permission, we can no longer release basic information as to name, age, city, occupation, sex or nature of illness and condition.

"In the past, we have released information to the media as to the basic condition, following the accepted condition code, but I'm not sure we can do it now, as the new CHA ruling stands."

The guidelines were distributed this spring to the 552 hospitals belonging to the CHA, and an association official said there had been some unfavorable reaction.

"We have received quite a number of objections and questions from both the news media and hospital public relations personnel," said Lynette Jordan, CHA publications director.

"In fact, some of the objections have been quite strenuous.

"The CHA has no enforcement powers," Mrs. Jordan added. "The guidelines are simply recommendations for voluntary compliance if hospitals desire. They are simply our legal counsel's interpretation of Section 70707 of the California Administrative Code."

But officials said the state Department of Health could withdraw a hospital's license for failing to comply with the code, and a patient could file a civil suit against the institutition.

The guidelines stem in part from the code section,which says patients' rights include: "Confidential treatment of all communications and records pertaining to his care and stay in the hospital. HIs written permission shall be obtained before his medical records can be made available to anyone not directly concerned with his care."

In addition, under the state's 1972 Mental Health Act, no information may be released concerning a psychiatric patient. A 1975 federal law also prohibits release of information about alcohol or drug abuse patients.

CHA officials conceded the new guidelines were not precise and that association lawyers were attempting to clarify them. An addition to the original memorandum can be expected, Mrs. Jordan said.

She said CHA-member hospitals, which include five University of California and six federal facilities, have been encouraged to maintain full cooperation with news media but are reminded that their "first responsibility is the welfare of the patients, safeguarding their legal and moral rights . . . and preventing an infringement on their privacy."

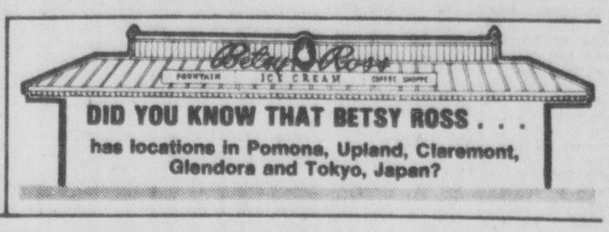

Business aid group renamed

The Pasadena Urban Coalition, which provides free advisory services to small businesses, has been renamed the Foothill Enterprise Development Association.

Executive Director George Wong said the new name better describes the services offered and the geographical regions covered.

"Because of our old name, few people realized that we serviced clients as far west as the San Fernando Valley and as far east as Pomona," said Wong.

Business operators who qualify for free management, technical or financial assistance, may contact Wong at (213) 792-5141.

Seniors vs. computer

By Lou Cottin

Your favorite supermarket now may have an electric system called Universal Product Scanning Code (UPC for short). It's important that we seniors know what it is all about.

When you buy anything at the supermarket now the price is marked, more or less clearly, on each package. If UPC goes into effect, all you'll see on the package will be a mysterious collection of vertical lines, already visible on many items. The prices will appear on shelf signs only. You'll be required to remember that price when you check out your purchases against the cash register. That's the way the supermarkets want the UPC system to work.

How's your memory, my aging brothers and sisters? You roll 10 items through the checkout counter. Back in the meat department, you picked up a chicken in aisle nine. Was the price 45 cents or 49 cents? No, that was the price of the tissues you threw into the cart in aisle seven. Or was it? Did the denture cleaner cost 98 cents or $1.19? It's all pretty confusing.

Meanwhile, back at the cash register, the machine and clerk are merrily clicking off your purchases, fast, fast, fast, You're hit two ways. Even if you remembered the price, you couldn't see the cash register figure, which can be printed literally in a thousandth of a second!

So a fight must be waged against UPC. In a number of cities and states, regulations already forbid supermarkets to use UPC unless they also mark a price on the commodity itself.

Consumer affairs departments on Long Island, where I live, are trying to protect us against the effects of UPC. In Nassau County, James Picken, the commissioner of consumer affairs, held a hearing on a proposed regulation to require that "UPC or no, supermarkets must put a price on every consumer commodity clearly and conspicuously."

Picken, along with consumer department heads everywhere, has good reason to believe that we consumers (especially seniors) are outraged at the idea of shopping "blind." At a recent open hearing, testimony by senior citizens and others was all in favor of the product pricing regulations. "Letters and petitions with hundreds of names have come to my office," Picken says. "Elderly consumers complain that they cannot even see the shelf signs properly."

Picken adds: "Consumers are sufficiently abused in the name of computerized progress. We don't want to permit another abuse." We murmur a devout amen.

We seniors have an active role to play in this boondoggle. Be sure that supermarkets won't give up easily. UPC gives them control if they want to change prices suddenly. Now, at least, we can see the prices on each commodity. We can spot the ripoff when they paste a sticker marked 79 cents over a product which only yesterday was stamped 69 cents. It isn't that we don't trust the supermarkets. Let's say we just want to keep them honest.

In this fight, we seniors have an advantage over younger food shoppers. We have time to defend ourselves at the stores. We don't need to rush home to take care of the kids. If the store does not put an easily read price on every product, we can go back to the shelf and check the shelf figure against the one that comes up on the cash register. We just walk back along the aisles and look at the price on the shelf. If enough of us do that with several items, UPC will become unprofitable to the store.

After all, once a checkout clerk starts adding up your purchases, she's stuck with your order. She cannot serve another customer until your total order is on the register. The lines of waiting customers behind you may stretch all the way back to fruits and vegetables. Too bad.

We are not against computerization. But UPC without clear price marking on each commodity we buy is an electronic razzle-dazzle we can do without.

Through the courtesy of my own (Nassau) county office of senior affairs, I've had the chance to see some of the petitions and letters urging that price marking on individual commodities be made mandatory. Strict enforcement of such a necessary regulation can be assured if we seniors report infractions of the regulation wherever we find them. We must also insist on checking our purchases personally by going back to the shelves from which we picked them.

Permit me a little bit of bragging. My own wonderful senior center members in Westbury gathered almost 1,500 names on our petition to mandate individual price marking on packages.

"We demand," the petition reads, "individual price markings of all packages in our supermarkets regardless of checkout systems used."

This is one more opportunity for us seniors to prove ourselves. We seniors can beat Universal Product Scanning Code here and all over the country. We will accept the system only if every package in the store is plainly marked. This will not only help us. It will set an example for younger shoppers. Their memories are no better than ours.

You never know about these things. If we play it right, we seniors may be the first organized consumer group in the nation to beat the computer.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The Massachusetts Government Act of May 20, 1774, one of the Intolerable Acts, prescribed that effective August 1, the Massachusetts Council would no longer be elected by the House of Representatives, but appointed by the royal governor on a "royal writ of Mandamus." The 36 appointed by Gage became marked men, their names being printed in the Whig press. The World Almanac recalls that Israel Williams was "smoked to a Whig" when the doors and chimney of his house were closed by a mob.

Oh, how my aging bosom swells with pride when I think about it!

Use of DDT permitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health officials in Colorado and California, where two cases of bubonic plague have been reported this year, now have federal permission to use the pesticide DDT against rodent fleas that may transmit the rare disease.

The Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday it has granted Colorado Gov. Richard D. Lamm's request to use the pesticide, which will be applied directly into wild rodent burrows by hand-powered equipment. The EPA had already given California permission to use DDT.

EPA makes exceptions to its ban on DDT in emergencies.

A federal health official in Atlanta said eight cases of bubonic plague have been confirmed in four western states this year in an apparent continuation of a puzzling upsurge of the disease that surfaced last year.

The victim recovered in the one Colorado case, but a victim in California died, according to Marshall Fox, a Center for Disease Control epidemiologist.

Two of four reported victims in New Mexico died, while two others recovered from the dangerous illness in Arizona, Fox said in a telephone interview.

The eight cases reported so far this year compared with six cases during the first half of 1975. There were 20 confirmed cases last year, said Fox, who noted that during the previous 25 years the number of plague cases in the United States never exceeded nine in any year.

Disease experts have not been able to figure out why the sudden increase occurred, he said.

Bubonic plague is transmitted to humans either by direct contact with infected animals such as rats, squirrels, prairie dogs and other rodents, or indirectly by bites from fleas from these animals. It can be transmitted between humans by close association.

Fox said the disease can be treated effectively with antibiotics if detected early, but it progresses rapidly and must not be neglected.

The plague's early symptoms are not noticeably different from many other infections, he added. They may include a high or low fever, with swollen lymph nodes in the groin, armpit or elsewhere.

Too Hot to Cook? Turn Our Snacks Into Full Meals!

Inside:
Our Brassy Bicentennial, A Birthday Tribute By Rod McKuen, To Begin America's 200th Birthday Week.

"It's taken me two hundred years to come down to this place
I have earned the right to see red, white and blue not on a battered standard borne in battle
but on my brother's face
I love my flag.
To me it stands for love kindness even to my enemy and most of all, for brotherhood."
By Rod McKuen
From "Colors of the Flag"

"If it takes commemorative dinner napkins, toys, fashions, shaving mugs, towels, toothbrushes, bed sheets, commercial aircraft, train tickets, preachers in churches with altars draped in flaglike bunting to remember our heritage, our Constitution, what brought us here, and, most of all, our birthday, that's just fine."

Rod McKuen Says:

"Sure, Our Bicentennial Is Brash, And I Love It!"

America's best-loved modern poet brings some hopeful and patriotic sentiments to this week's FAMILY WEEKLY in a special Bicentennial tribute to kick off our 200th birthday week. Read Rod McKuen's latest poem, glorifying the real meaning of our nation's flag. You'll learn why McKuen feels we shouldn't bemoan the commercialism of the Bicentennial, that the only thing that matters is that our attention is focused on the significance of the occasion. We are capitalists, we believe in free enterprise, proclaims McKuen — so how can we react to America's greatest moment other than through commercial ventures? If you love your country and the great variety of people and industries it boasts, you'll appreciate these words of wisdom from a man who writes with great passion about America. Start your celebration with Rod McKuen's inspirational words.

Threatens suicide in court unless freed for concerts

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A man sentenced to one year in jail threatened to kill himself before a shocked courtroom unless the judge agreed to free him for one weekend.

Larry Pollard, 24, suddenly produced a knife Wednesday and pointed it at his stomach just minutes after San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo had sentenced him to one year in jail on a burglary conviction.

Pollard, a musician, said he would kill himself unless he was allowed to fulfill a longstanding commitment to play two concerts this weekend in the San Jose area.

It was a stand-off for about 30 minutes until the judge convinced Pollard to put down the knife and discuss the matter in his chambers. There, a deal was struck allowing Pollard to be released on his own recognizance Saturday in time for the concerts.

L.A. parade shrinks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Beverly Hills and Santa Monica have played spoiler's roles in deflating what had been billed as the "world's longest parade."

County supervisors were told Tuesday the July 4 Bicentennial event — at first set to run for 18 miles — had shrunk to 10.8 miles.

A county Bicentennial Commission spokesman said Beverly Hills declined to issue permits for the route within its boundaries and Santa Monica refused to provide 60 police officers to police the parade in its limits.

The spokesman said the 60 floats in the parade will move through Beverly Hills as a motorcade and the marching units will disband until reentering Los Angeles territory. The parade will end at the Santa Monica city limits.

But, the spokesman told the supervisors, "it will still be the biggest parade by one-half mile."

JC releaguing plan in trouble?

Whether or not Mt. San Antonio, Citrus and Chaffey will be in the same league for the 1977-78 athletic year remains a big question-mark at this time.

The California Community and Junior College Association's plan was to releague the Southern Cal JCs completely for the 1977-78 year, and a series of public meetings on the releaguing plan has been completed.

The Committee on Athletics will be meeting August 9 at Santa Monica College to develop a final proposal for action on the plan.

The three local JCs seem to welcome the proposal, which would put them back in the same conference for the first time since 1969 when the old Eastern Conference was dismantled.

However, many other Southern Cal JCs are up in arms about the plan. In the recent public meeting at Cypress College, representatives of East Los Angeles, Long Beach City College and Grossmont all took exception to the plan.

The main bone of contention with the releaguing proposal is that many Southland JCs are afraid that they will be placed in a loop with traditional JCs powers Cerritos, Fullerton, Long Beach City and the like.

Long-distance travel has also been mentioned as a problem by some schools, but that seems to be a specious argument since one of the main considerations of the realignment plan was to cut down on travel.

Nonetheless, the initial optimism with which many greeted the plan has been dulled. It would appear that a bitter battle awaits the plan on many fronts, and the possibility of MSAC, Citrus and Chaffey all fighting it out in a revived Eastern Conference remains a longshot at this time.

OCC picks coaches

In other JC notes, MSAC's foe in the South Coast Conference, Orange Coast College, has apparently squared away its coaching staff for the upcoming 1976-77 athletic year.

The Pirates filled the vacancy at head basketball coach by naming Tandy Gillis to that post. The OCC job in baseball went to Mike Mayne, while Bill Hanson will be taking over the reins of the OCC cross country team.

Gillis has been head coach at Corona del Mar High the past seven years, rolling up a 122-57 record and four league titles. The 28-year -old succeeds Herb Livsey, who was reassigned by the school last March.

New Pirate baseball mentor Mayne has coached the past four years at Eisenhower High. He guided Ike to an impressive 83-27 record in that time and three Citrus Belt League titles. He will be replacing Barry Wallace, who resigned in April.

The "raiding" of the prep coaching ranks by the Pirates was something of a surprise. A number of successful college coaches, including some local mentors, had applied for either the basketball or baseball positions at OCC. Apparently the school brass wanted both programs to have a totally new look.

Considering the Pirates' lack of success in the two round-ball sports the past several years, it's not too surprising that the school would be seeking a new outlook in basketball and baseball.

Indians tab Campora

While OCC was rounding out its coaching staff, San Bernardino Valley College's frantic search for a new football mentor has apparently come to and end with the hiring of Don "Tiny" Campora.

Campora will fill the vacancy left when Ken Uselton resigned after replacing Harold Beach, who was fired. Uselton stayed at the SBVC campus just about long enough to have a cup of coffee before quitting, which makes one wonder if there's any hope at all for the sagging Indian football program.

Back on the SCC scene, the conference has announced that two new team sports have been added to the 1976-77 athletic calendar. They are soccer and volleyball.

The fall soccer season will open Oct. 8 and the volleyball campaign Mar. 10. MSAC will field a team in both sports, along with four of the conference's other six schools.

Dodgers dispose of Mike Marshall

ATLANTA (AP) — "We're after Cincinnati and when you go after the Reds you have to go for the best in the game," said Atlanta Braves General Manager John Alevizos explaining his newest acquisition, reliever Mike Marshall.

"Marshall was my prime objective," Alevizos said Wednesday night, shortly after obtaining the 33-year-old right-hander from the Los Angeles Dodgers. "I consider him one of the premier relievers in baseball."

The Braves also sold relief pitcher Elias Sosa and infielder Lee Lacy to the Dodgers.

Marshall, a veteran of nine big league seasons and winner of the 1974 Cy Young Award when he pitched in 106 games for the Dodgers—winning 15 games and losing 12 with an earned run average of 2.42— came to the Braves in a straight waiver deal, not a trade, which cost Atlanta $20,000, Alevizos said.

"I spoke to Mike in Houston and the first thing he asked me was, 'Where are you tomorrow?' I told him we're in Atlanta and he said, 'I'll be there.'

"I told him, 'With that kind of spirit, I'll meet you at the airport.' If I'd have known he was that kind of guy, I'd have doubled my efforts to get him," Alevizos added.

Marshall, contacted in Houston where the Dodgers were playing the Astros, said: "A trade is something that should be accepted by any player. Players and fans should accept the fact that players are sold and traded with little concern for the players' wishes ... but that is the owners' perogative.

"But I don't think a player should be blamed for trying to shape his own destiny," Marshall continued. "That's an aspect of free enterprise."

Marshall said it was a new challenge when he went to the Dodgers and "although it is sad leaving friends in Los Angeles, I am looking forward to the new challenge in Atlanta.

"There is nothing physically wrong with me and hopefully I can get all the work I want there," he said.

Dodgers Manager Walt Alston said Marshall indicated no hard feelings when told of the trade.

"I never had any problems with Mike," Alston said. "He has always given 100 per cent. I used him when I had to and I didn't use him when I didn't need to, just like any other player. I feel he can still pitch."

"We gave up a lot, but we got a lot," said Atlanta Manager Dave Bristol, whose club is virtually brand new from one that finished 40½ games behind the Reds last season.

Atlanta is currently 30-37 after winning seven of its last eight games and is 11½ games behind Cincinnati in the National League West.

"Marshall's a unique man," said Bristol. "He wants the ball. And he came to the right place to get it."

Marshall was 4-3 this season in 30 appearances. He had eight saves and a 4.45 ERA but had been used sparingly of late with the emergence of Charlie Hough in the Los Angeles bullpen.

"Marshall wants to work," said Alevizos. "He wasn't getting it in Los Angeles, but he certainly will get it here."

Sosa was 4-4 in 35 1/3 innings and his ERA was 5.40. Lacy was hitting .272 with three home runs and 20 runs batted in.

Lacy was a key figure in an earlier off-season deal between the Braves and Dodgers. Lacy, Jim Wynn, Jerry Royster and Tom Paciorek came to Atlanta in exchange for Dusty Baker and Ed Goodson.

"I had begun to like to live in the south," said Lacy, who was disappointed at the deal. "I looked at a house here just yesterday."

In Los Angeles, a Dodger spokesman said: "We needed the extra bat and with Charlie Hough pitching so well, we felt we would not be hurting ourselves by letting Marshall go on waivers."

Marshall is also a controversial figure, refusing to sign autographs at times. And last winter he became embroiled in a feud with officials at his alma mater, Michigan State, over his right to practice on university facilities.

He is scheduled to go on trial Nov. 1 before a jury in East Lansing, Mich., on four misdemeanor charges—two counts of malicious destruction of MSU property, trespassing and disrupting a scheduled activity.

He sought to use a pitching facility at the school where he is a graduate student. Marshall has also responded with a suit against the school.

Marshall said early today he had received from second hand sources that the Michigan State incident was of great concern to the Dodgers' management.

"I have also explained that it is of great concern to me, that my education, my future, my candidacy for a doctor's degree was being threatened.

"I refuse to be pushed around," Marshall said. "I have to see it through, even if it puts a secondary emphasis on baseball. It's my feeling that the Dodgers didn't understand this."

Marshall said he believed that when he was going well the Dodgers felt there was nothing they could do about it.

"But as soon as I stumbled and Charlie (Hough) began to do well, it was my feeling that the club began to look for ways to move me."

Alston reiterated that his relationship with Marshall was 100 per cent. He said he treated Marshall the same as he would treat any relief pitcher. "I never had any trouble with Mike," he said.

NO SCORE

Oakland's Larry Haney is out at the plate in second inning Wednesday night at Anaheim Stadium. Andy Etchebarren makes the play. However, A's scored 8-2 win over Angels.

Rhoden hurls three-hitter, scores only run in 1-0 win

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros had been averaging nine runs a game in the last three games but Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Rick Rhoden has put an end to their offensive fireworks.

Rhoden tossed a three-hitter and scored the lone run Wednesday night as the Dodgers nipped the Astros 1-0.

The veteran right-hander ended a four-game Los Angeles losing streak almost singlehandedly in gaining his sixth victory of the season without a loss.

Houston starter J. R. Richard, 7-8, allowed only two hits over the first eight innings as Houston fell for the eighth time in the last 10 games.

Each starting pitcher hurled five no-hit innings before giving up hits in the sixth.

Rhoden broke up Richard's no-hitter with a sixth inning single. He took third base on Bill Buckner's double and scored on Ted Sizemore's sacrifice fly.

"If (Cesar) Cedeno didn't have to run to his left at full speed and throw the ball to the right he would have had me at the plate," Rhoden said.

"This is the most satisfying of my career, mainly because we have been struggling."

Rob Andrews' sixth inning double broke up Rhoden's no-hit bid and Cliff Johnson singled with two out in the seventh, but the Astros were not able to put more than one runner on base in a single inning against Rhoden until the ninth.

A two-base error by Rick Auerbach and a two-out walk to Wilbur Howard put runners on first and second in the ninth before Enos Cabel grounded into a game-ending force play.

The Astros also threatened in the eighth when pinch-hitter Jose Cruz delivered a two-out double but was stranded as Rhoden retired the next two batters on a fly ball and an infield out.

"We never seem to get many hits of J. R.," said Rhoden. "I knew I had a no-hitter going but I wasn't expecting one. I was just trying to make good pitches and keep the Astros off the scoreboard."

AIA signs Drollinger

Ralph Drollinger, the former UCLA center, will be playing in the Pomona Valley this November, when Cal Poly hosts the Athletes in Action basketball team on Monday night, Nov. 22.

The Athletes in Action announced the addition of Drollinger, the seven-foot center who helped lead UCLA to the NCAA finals all four seasons in Westwood, at a recent press conference in Anaheim.

Drollinger was drafted in the seventh round of-the National Basketball Association draft by the Boston Celtics but elected to play for the Tustin-based Athletes in Action, an organization that spreads ministry for Christ through athletics.

AIA announced it will play two home games at the Anaheim Convention Center against the University of San Francisco on Jan. 20 and Nevada Las Vegas on Jan. 29.

Eight other NBA draft selections will be attending an AIA tryout camp to be held later this month.

Locals ousted

WIMBLEDON, England — Glendora's Lea Antonoplis was defeated today in the third round of women's singles of the Wimbledon tennis championships by fourth-seeded Martina Navratilova, 6-1, 6-1.

Antonoplis defeated Iris Riedel of Germany 6-3, 6-2 Wednesday in second round action while Claremont's Janice Metcalf was eliminated by World Team Tennis player Joanne Russell of Naples, Fla. 6-4, 6-1.

Fingers just wants to play

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Rollie Fingers, the celebrated relief pitcher without a team, watched the Oakland A's manhandle the poor California Angels Wednesday night and simply said, "we are still a good ball club."

Don't talk to the Angels about how bad the A's are now that Charlie Finley is trading and selling many of the top stars which brought him three consecutive world championships.

The A's breezed to an 8-2 victory over the hapless Halos Wednesday to make it 6-0 over the Anaheimers this season and nine in a row in a string dating back to last year.

Fingers enjoyed watching the A's knock out 15 hits against the Angels from his seat in the Anaheim Stadium press box but he would have preferred being out in the bullpen.

The Upland High product is currently in limbo with Vida Blue and Joe Rudi after Commissioner Bowie Kuhn halted Finley's sale of his prize employes to the Boston Red Sox (Fingers and Rudi) and New York Yankees (Blue).

It has been more than a week since any of the three have seen action and it remains to be seen how long it will be before they play again depending on when Finley takes the matter into the court room and what develops.

"We're still getting paid and should get our next check on July 1," Fingers said, "and the A's gave us meal money for this trip. We would like to play but Finley is the owner and he says no."

Even though Finley has to permit the three players to remain with the team, he has instructed manager Chuck Tanner not to play them until the case is taken to court.

Rudi and Fingers came with the team to Anaheim Stadium while Blue remained in Oakland because of his son's illness. Both Rudi and Fingers worked out before the game but they were wearing the A's green uniform tops while the other players wore their gold shirts.

"I'm just working out and waiting," Fingers said. "That's all I can do. It's out of my hands now. I threw about 10 minutes before the game tonight."

Inactivity is not a good thing for a relief pitcher.

"I could go out on the mound now and pitch but I am concerned about my control," the former Uplander says.

Fingers just wants to get the thing settled and doesn't seem to care where he goes.

"I just hope they make a decision soon," he said. "I don't care who I pitch for. I just want to play baseball."

Actually, Fingers admits he wouldn't mind staying with the A's despite the fact he hasn't gotten anywhere with Finley in signing his contract.

"I would just as soon stay in Oakland," he explained. "I live in Walnut Creek in the Oakland area. I'm even willing to come down on my asking price a bit but Finley hasn't come up with a reasonable offer."

Fingers wants a three-year contract similar to the deal the Dodgers gave the departed Mike Marshall last year when Iron Mike received $270,000 on a two-year pact.

"I wanted the same contract as Marshall received but Finley told me he would never pay a relief pitcher that much," Fingers said. "All I have done is help the A's win five straight division championships and three World Series."

Fingers, who will be 30 in August, said veteran players are more concerned with security than anything else.

"I hope to pitch four or five more years," he explained, "and feel I must have some protection in case I am injured or something else would happen to shorten my career."

The pitcher also feels Finley's sale of the three players for a reported $3½ million doesn't hurt the players' case.

"I believe those deals show the real value of major league players," he said. "I feel all the clubs can afford about anything they want. If they want a player bad enough, they will pay it.

Fingers wants to be wearing an Oakland or Boston uniform soon in game competition.

The Angels knew they were in trouble before Wednesday's game even started when scheduled starter Nolan Ryan had to be scratched because of a fever and lefthander Andy Hassler took his place.

Oakland drilled Hassler for six runs in the first three innings to immediately take command as Hassler (0-5) suffered his 16th consecutive loss to come within three of the infamous American League record.

However, manager Dick Williams was again spared watching most of the debacle when he was ejected by second base umpire Lou DiMuro on a close call at second base when DiMuro ruled Bruce Bochte out on a force play in the second inning.

The call even resulted in a barrage of strong words from president Red Patterson in the press box.

Sal Bando led the A's parade with his two-run homer in the first inning. It was his 11th of the season and third against the Angels. He has hit 25 against the Halos in his career.

Meanwhile, Mike Norris and Stan Bahnsen held the hitless Angels to five safeties. The highlight was Dan Briggs' first homer of the season in the eighth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES — Oakland is 6-3 since Rudi, Fingers and Blue were sold. The A's are currently only using 22 players.

Sid Monge (2-2) is scheduled to face Glenn Abbott (1-1) tonight in the finale of the homestand.

Outfielder Dave Collins is back with the Angels after hitting .358 for Salt Lake City in the Pacific Coast League. Orlando Alvarez was optioned to Salt Lake.

The Angels signed Arizona State outfielder Ken Landreaux, their top choice in the free agent draft. He will be sent to their Texas League farm club at El Paso.

Sandoval on TV tonight

Boxer Albert Sandoval of Pomona will be interviewed by announcer Jimmy Lennon at 9 p.m. tonight on television station KCOP, channel 13.

Sandoval will make his debut as a main-event fighter at the Olympic Auditorium in a 10-round bout Thursday, July 1.

Sandoval, 20, will be looking for his 10th straight win and seventh knockout since turning professional in August, 1975. His opponent for the 10-round bantam weight fight will be Alberto Cabanig of the Philippines, who has a string of four straight wins in the San Francisco area.

The bout will be carried live on channel 13, at 9 p.m.

Sandoval has had four scheduled 10-rounders since turning pro but allowed none of them to go beyond five rounds before knocking out his opponent.

A member of the Pomona Athletic League, Sandoval has been boxing since he was 12 under manager Tony Cerda. He won the National AAU championship at 106 pounds in 1973 and was runnerup for the Golden Gloves title at 112 in 1975, shortly before turning pro.

The Pomona native attended Garey High.

Dick Allen having fun with Phils

By Associated Press

Life among the Philadelphia Phillies is finally agreeing with Dick Allen. The Phils are running away with the National League East and the sometimes moody, controversial Allen is thoroughly enjoying the trip.

"This is really fun," said Allen after Philadelphia dumped Cincinnati 4-2 Wednesday night. "Whether I'm 0-for-12 or 0-for1,200, I'm having fun.

"I'd pay to watch a playoff between these two teams...and I can't stand to watch baseball."

Allen, in his second go-round with Philadelphia after turbulent stints with St. Louis, Los Angeles and the Chicago White Sox, has got his batting average up to .286 and is regaining the earlier form that made him one of the game's most feared sluggers.

He got the Phils' winning rally going in the ninth with a leadoff double and took third on an infield out. After a walk, pinch-hitter Bob Boone grounded to third and Pete Rose bounced his throw off first baseman Tony Perez' chest, allowing Allen to score the tiebreaking run. Dave Cash singled in an insurance run as Philadelphia beat the NL West leaders for the fifth time in seven games this season.

"I just made a bad throw," said the usually dependable Rose. "It's the first time I ever lost a game. Too bad they can't give the loss to me instead of the pitcher."

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles blanked Houston 1-0, San Francisco beat San Diego twice, 7-6 and 8-7, Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 5-2 and 3-0, the New York Mets edged St. Louis 5-4 and the Chicago Cubs shaded Pittsburgh 6-5.

Until Rose's throwing error in the ninth, the Phils and Reds had battled on even terms. Mike Schmidt clubbed his 20th homer of the year for a 1-0 Philly lead in the fourth, then Johnny Bench tied it for the Reds in the bottom of the inning with a sacrifice fly.

Cincinnati went on top 2-1 on George Foster's homer in the sixth, his 16th, then the Phils got even in the seventh when Allen got aboard on a forceout and came around on Jay Johnstone's double and a groundout. Ron Reed, 6-2 was the winner and Pedro Borbon, 0-1, the loser, both in relief.

The Phils are now 45-19—the best record by far in the majors—and lead second-place Pittsburgh by 8½ games.

"This is the best team I've ever been on," said Allen. "They come waltzing into the clubhouse at 2 p.m. and stay until they get the job done."

Giants 7-8, Padres 6-7

Newly-acquired Darrell Evans belted a two-run homer and a triple in the first game and clubbed a grand slam homer in the nightcap for San Francisco. The Padres had 31 hits to 17 for the Giants in the doubleheader, but San Francisco made theirs count more. Gary Thomasson hit a three-run homer for San Francisco in the opener and Bobby Murcer had a three-run shot in the second game.

Willie Davis had four hits and John Grubb three for San Diego in the first game and Mike Ivie went four-for-five with three RBI in the second. The twin twin-killing ended the Padres brief stay in second place in the NL West as they tumbled back to third behind Los Angeles.

Braves 5-3, Expos 2-0

Andy Messersmith and Phil Niekro turned in a pair of sparkling efforts for Atlanta. Messersmith, 7-5, continued to pay dividends on his million-dollar contract with a five-hitter and a two-run single in the opener. Niekro, 6-4, tossed a four-hitter and struck out 10 batters in the nightcap.

Atlanta outfielder Rowland Office collected base hits in both games to extend his hitting streak to 29 games, just eight short of the NL record of 37 set by Tommy Holmes in 1945 with the Boston Braves.

Mets 5, Cardinals 4

Jerry Grote's leadoff home run in the ninth enabled New York to break a four-game losing streak. It was Grote's first hit in his last 24 at-bats. Tom Seaver, 8-5, bested Pete Falcone, 5-6, with an 11-strikeout performance. Del Unser homered for the Mets and Joe Ferguson hit one for St. Louis.

Cubs 6, Pirates 5

A throwing error by Bob Moose in the ninth inning, the fifth Pittsburgh error of the game, allowed the winning run to score as Chicago snapped a four-game losing streak. Willie Stargell and Dave Parker hit home runs for the Pirates. Only one of Chicago's runs was earned.

A scheduled second game was postponed by darkness with Pittsburgh leading 2-0 after four innings. It will be replayed from the start at an undetermined future date.

Sports briefs

The Superior Court suit was filed Wednesday by Stan Stress of San Diego.

Stress named as defendants the university and its president, Brage Golding.

Acting as his own attorney, he accused the school of competing unfairly against the National Football League club, saying it was paying "starvation wages" in the form of athletic scholarships.

Stress noted that San Diego State outdrew the Chargers at the gate last season, averaging 45,000 fans a game at San Diego Stadium against the Chargers' 26,000.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia Phillies announced Wednesday that 4,000 standing room tickets for the All-Star baseball game next month at Veterans Stadium will go on sale June 26.

The July 13 game is a sell-out with the exception of the tickets to be sold June 26.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — Lou Warneeke, 67, former National League baseball pitching great and umpire known as the "the Arkansas Hummingbird," died of an apparent heart attack.

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Orr is scheduled to make his Chicago debut today and, in a public ceremony, sign a contract making him the newest Black Hawk and the team's first superstar since Bobby Hull left the National Hockey League team for the World Hockey Association.

Orr, 28, and the Black Hawks reportedly have agreed on a $3 million, multi-year pact despite the fact that the former Boston Bruin defenseman has undergone five operations on his left knee.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson says Phil Hicks, the National basketball association club's No. 2 draft choice, is holding out for a no-cut contract and a bonus.

Hicks, a 6-7 forward from Tulane, did not show up for the Rockets' three-day summer camp which ended Wednesday.

"I tried to tell him he was hurting his chances but he wouldn't come," Patterson said.

Pac-8 looks at Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Exploratory talks on Pacific-8 Conference expansion into Arizona have been recessed until at least the end of August after an initial meeting here.

UCLA Chancellor Charles Young said Wednesday the "discussion was exploratory. We have to determine what the considerations are. We have never before had a joint discussion. We have to determine what issues have to be resolved. This discussion was to develop those issues that need to be pursued."

Six Pac-8 representatives met with four officials from Arizona and Arizona State.

"They've had all kinds of information on us, but until today we've known very little about them as evidenced by the seemingly stupid questions I asked," said Dr. Richard Edwards, an Arizona vice president who represented President John Schaefer.

Discussions were "in generalities about the way things are handled in the Pac-8 and the Western Athletic Conference, Similarities and differences and some of the reasons the Pac-8 is interested in expanding to Arizona," Edwards said.

Dr. Fred Miller, ASU athletic director, added, "I don't want to do or say anything to make people assume we're here for anything but discussion. I don't want this meeting construed to be any more or any less than what it is."

Chancellor Young said the main issues at this point are the impact of the proposed expansion on the athletic programs of the institutions involved, financial implications and committments to other institutions.

Future meetings will weigh the financial advantages and disasvantages of joining the west coast conference, Edwards said.

The Pac-8 includes UCLA, Southern California, California, Stanford, Oregon, Oregon State, Washington and Washington State.

"There is considerable concern about what might happen to the Western Athletic Conference," if Arizona and Arizona State join the Pac-8, said Edwards. "We have good friends in the WAC. Also, ASU is vitally interested in the Fiesta Bowl aspect."

ASU, which has been the WAC representative in the Fiesta Bowl for most of the bowl's existence, splits the receipts with the competing school. In the Pac-8, Rose Bowl receipts are shared by all members.

ASU's stadium is used for the Fiestal Bowl.

Edwards said no date was set for further meetings. "As far as we're concerned another meeting can't be held until late in August because of the schedules of the people involved."

WAC rules require notification of withdrawal from the conference by Sept. 1. The withdrawal would be official the following June 30.

Young said the proposed expansion could be accomplished in time to schedule at least four football games for 1978.

Olympic trialists suffer from allergies

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — In the Cascade mountains 50 miles east of here, far from Hayward Field and the grass pollen of the lush Willamette Valley, Mike Manley and Mark Feig have been sharing a cabin and training for the U.S. Olympic track and field trials.

"It's beautiful up heere — the air is so fresh," said Manley, a 34-year-old school teacher who, like Feig, has a sensitivity to grass pollen. They're among the many athletes with similar allergies competing at the trials.

Neither Manley, a 1972 Olympian, nor Feig, a 1975 University of Oregon graduate, plan to leave their retreat until a couple of hours before their events. It's an hour's drive to Hayward Field and they have to check in an hour ahead of their races.

Assuming they do well in the preliminaries, and both plan to, they'll leave immediately after their races and go back to the Cascades, where they'll stay until the next round.

The trials, following the format of the Montreal Olympics next month, resume today after everyone took the day off Wednesday.

Manley, who says his training away from Eugene "is going very well," is entered in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. Heats in that event get underway late this afternoon.

Feig, who won the Prefontaine Classic with a fine 3:38.1, will run in the 1,500 meters. Heats are scheduled Friday.

Finals in four events were on today's program — the men's hammer throw and 110-meter hurdles and the women's high jump and 200 meters.

There also were qualifying rounds in the men's long jump and semifinals in the 400 meters as well as qualifying in the women's discus throw and semifinals in the women's 400 meters.

The steeplechase heats start at 5 p.m., PDT, and Manley, the Pan-Am gold medalist last year, is confident even though he has competed in the event only twice this year.

It was after two mediocre steeplechase performances that he decided to leave Eugene to train in the mountains, away from the pollen to which he is allergic. A week later, he came back to run the 5,000 meters in the Prefontaine Classic on June 5, finishing seventh in 13:42.

Finley will have to use three players

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, said Wednesday that owner Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's will be ordered in the next day or so to use Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue.

Finley shocked the baseball world last week when he sold the three players to the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees for a total of $3.5 million.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn later vetoed the sales and returned the trio to the A's roster. However, Finley told A's manager Chuck Tanner to not use the players and refused to allow them to be with the team during its games.

"We're not going to permit the players to be hung up in mothballs," MacPhail said.

Finley has said he's going to court to sue Kuhn and baseball for $10 million due to the ruling, but he has still not filed any suit.

The Yankees, who thought they had bought Blue for $1.5 million, have also indicated they might take legal action. But, have been holding off any formal announcement.

Either Kuhn or MacPhail may order Finley to use the trio, which Finley says he is not using because they might be injured and that he would be liable if they were later declared the property of another team.

A ruling by Kuhn or MacPhail could allow Finley to use the players without making him liable for injuries. Finley has also stated that an order from higher authorities to use them would not prejudice any action he might take in the courts since he'd be using the players under protest.

Charles White Athlete of Year

Charles White, San Fernando High two-sport star who was named Los Angeles City's Most Valuable Player in both football and track during the 1975-76 school year, has been named Southern California's High School Athlete of the Year by members of Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation's selection board.

White won the voting over two other nominees — Chaffey's Anthony Munoz, football and baseball star who is headed for USC, and Laguna Beach's Eric Hulst, a standout in track and cross country.

White, also headed for USC, lettered in football, track, baseball and wrestling during his prep career. The 6-foot, 170-pound senior helped his school to the L.A. City championship in football and the state co-title in track.

He set a national record this year with a 36.0 second timing in the 330-yard low hurdles at the L.A. City track finals and won the event at the State Meet in 36.7.

He was second in the L.A. City meet high hurdles in 14.1 and helped his team to second place in the 440 relay and fourth in the mile relay at the State Meet.

As a member of San Fernando's two-time City football championship team, he rushed for 1,155 yards as a senior and 1,160 as a junior. He scored 24 touchdowns in that two-year period.

Coleman recalls

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Jerry Coleman, in his fifth season as play-by-play broadcast announcer for the San Diego Padres, laughs when anyone recalls a certain incident during his New York Yankee playing days. It seems some Yankees were staying out late and general manager George Weiss ordered detectives to follow the players.

When the detectives turned in their report on Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek it said, in effect: "They go to the movies, the YMCA then have a malted milk." The Richardson-Kubek double play combination became known as the "malted milk" boys.

And says Coleman: "I was one of them, too."

Highlights

Gerod Leonard had a game-winning double and also went the distance on the hill, fanning six, in Little Bill's Pirates 8-7 win over the Optimist Cardinals. Kenny Jordan went three-for-six with a two-run triple and five RBIs and Andre Clark had a two-run single and Chris Carr also had two RBIs in Trans Cal's 20-12 win over the Braves. Later in the week David Martin pitched a three-hitter, striking out 11, in Trans Cal's 5-2 win over the Interact A's.

Beaman Long had a two-run double and Lamont Chambliss went two-for-three with two doubles and three RBIs as Interact beat Rod, Gun and Hobby 16-4. Sam Pearsall had two hits with an RBI. Johnny White had the game-winning hit in the Optimists' win over the Braves. Herman Suqua had a double and a three-run homer. Willie Phillips had a two-run double and Vincente Phillips went three-for-four with a triple and two-run double in the Braves victory over the Optimists.

Highlights

Bruce Allyn Plumbing, led by the hitting of Ricky Rhinehart, Jeff Dahlstrom and Michael Valdez and the pitching of Royce Jaime and Mark McConnell, beat Mr. Dryclean 16-6. Rhinehart was four-for-five and Dahlstrom had a homer, while Leo Flores had a homer for Mr. Dryclean in a losing cause. Later in the week, Bruce Allyn put together 13 hits, including home runs by McConnell, Valdez and Dahlstrom, to down Bumsteads 18-1. Jaime had four hits in that game and McConnell three. Pitchers Dahlstrom and Jaime combined to fan 15 Bumsteads batters.

Montclair Bronze used 15 hits to down Montclair Dairy 15-2, as Bob "Bam Bam" Lopez and Val Parrilla each had three. In a game later in the week, Montclair Bronze outhit league leader Optimists 12-7 as Mike Beatrice went four-for-four and Ray Williams had three hits. Optimists prevailed however, as George Hess ripped his first homer of the season and Victor Marin bombed two round trippers (his fifth and sixth of the year) to pace the 10-9 victory.

Optimists had slipped past Pizza Palace 5-4 earlier. Pitchers Hess and Marin allowed only two hits while striking out 15, while Pizza Palace's Brian Campbell Kirk DeMichele allowed only three hits and fanned 12.

Mr. Dryclean's Flores poked his fifth homer of the year and pitcher Ronnie Molina struck out 13 as they paced a 7-1 win over Lloyds. Campbell also hit his fifth homer of the season for Pizza Palace in a 6-5 win over Montclair Dairy. Pitchers Campbell and DeMichele struck out 14 although Dairy pitchers Barry Herbert and Matt McCune almost equaled their feat by fanning 13.

Joe Escobedo fired his second no-hitter of the season as the Braves blanked the Cubs 8-0. Escobedo also hit a three-run home run in the game. Other winning pitchers during the week were Mike Browns (Astros), Roger Iwig (Giants), Jim O'Brien (Dodgers), Joe Vera (Braves), Tim Holley (Dodgers) and Steve Heide (Cubs).

Escobedo returned later in the week to slug two homers, his eighth and ninth of the season, in the Braves' 9-6 win over the Pirates. Scott O'Heir of the Pirates also hit a home run during the week. Dodger Tim Holley tossed the other shutout in league play, as he blanked the Astros 18-0 on a three hitter.

Grich's homer helps Palmer again

By Associated Press

Bobby Grich isn't Baltimore's designated hitter, but you'll have forgive Jim Palmer if he doesn't buy that.

It seems that when Palmer is pitching, Grich is usually doing something useful with his bat.

Last year, the Baltimore second baseman hit home runs to provide Palmer with a pair of 1-0 triumphs. Wednesday night he was back at it, slamming a two-run homer with two-out in the bottom of the 10th inning, transforming Palmer from loser to winner with one swing and lifting the Orioles to a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

In other American League action, the Cleveland Indians topped the New York Yankees 4-1, the Texas Rangers downed the Kansas City Royals 7-5, the Oakland A's trimmed the California Angels 8-2, the Chicago White Sox won a pair from the Minnesota Twins 4-3 and 9-5 and the Milwaukee Brewers outslugged the Detroit Tigers 9-5.

Baltimore's sudden rally— Tony Muser's two-out single preceded Grich's first-pitch homer off Jim Willoughby— gave the third-place Orioles their eighth triumph in nine games, pulled them within seven games of first place and made Palmer the first nine-game winner in the AL. Jim Rice hit solo homers for both Boston runs.

"I didn't want to go for a double. I was going for the pump because I didn't want another long game," Grich joked, referring to Tuesday night's 15-inning loss to the Red Sox. "I was going out to eat some crabs and I wanted to get out."

Indians 4, Yanks 1

Don Hood checked New York on six hits over the first eight innings while ex-Yankee Charlie Spikes drove in a pair of runs with a fourth-inning single off Ken Holtzman. The Indians scored twice in the first inning before Holtzman could retire a batter. Rick Manning led off with a single, Larvell Blanks tripled and George Hendrick singled.

Rangers 7, Royals 5

Texas pulled within three games of Kansas City in the AL West behind Steve Foucault's clutch relief pitching and Toby Harrah's three-run homer in the opening inning. The Rangers broke a 5-5 tie in the sixth when Mike Hargrove singled, took third on Harrah's single and scored on Dennis Leonard's wild pitch.

Sloppy Texas fielding helped the Royals to four unearned runs as the Rangers blew a 5-1 lead.

"I was about to go through the wall when we started making all those errors. I had to take a tranquilizer," said Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi. "This was a big game and we just had to have it."

White Sox 4-9, Twins 3-5

Jorge Orta slammed a decisive triple in the first game and added a two-run homer in the nightcap. In the opener, Bart Johnson won his first game in exactly a month with relief help from Terry Forster. Jack Brohamer, who homered in the opener, doubled two runs across in the nightcap. Orta's two-run homer gave the Sox a 4-2 lead. His triple in the opener made the score 4-1.

Brewers 9, Tigers 5

George Scott, miffed at being dropped from fourth to sixth in the batting order, collected his seventh home run and two singles and drove in two runs to spark Milwaukee over Detroit. Sixto Lezcano capped a three-run fourth inning with a two-run double and Robin Yount knocked in two runs with two singles as the Brewers broke a four-game losing streak.

Johnson signs with Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys Wednesday announced the signing of running back Ron Johnson, who had played out his option with the New York Giants, to the same kind of make good contract they negotiated with Duane Thomas.

"There was no bonus, no guarantees of a no-cut," said Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys.

Johnson's contract with Dallas will be for two years if he makes the club.

Johnson, 28, has twice rushed for over 1,000 yards in a season but has spent the last two years in limbo under Giant Coach Bill Arnsparger. Fighting injury problems such as a pulled hamstring and broken hand, Johnson also felt he was used improperly in Arnsparger's system.

"I'm excited about joining the Cowboys because I've always wanted to be on a contender," said Johnson, who gained only 351 yards rushing in 1975.

Johnson was a first round draft choice by Cleveland in 1969.

Death talk: fear, relief for those growing old

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judd Klein and Jean Cher love to talk about the glory days of New York's Radio City Music Hall, where he was a songwriter and she was one of the original "Rockettes."

But the 80-year-old Klein — who calls himself a "song doctor" — and Mrs. Cher, 67, share more than just memories of their vaudeville days. Like thousands of other elderly Americans, they face their last days in the confines of a nursing home.

And, like countless other older Americans, Klein and Mrs. Cher find themselves in a perplexing state of limbo. Past the peak of productivity, yet alert enough to know it, they just wait and dream.

'You see, I'm what they call a 'song-doctor', that's all I know" Klein said. "You name 'em, I've written for 'em ... Sophie Tucker, Al Jolson ... they'd come to me with a number that needed work, and I'D FIX IT.

"Now I write sometiimes, but not often. It's difficult to write here because there's no piano."

Klein spends most of his time in his room, flanked by two men more infirm than himself, listening to all-news radio stations. Occasonally, cane in hand, he will sneak out the hall for a walk and a cigarette, dodging nurse's aides who like to restrict smoking to designated areas.

Though Klein's room is no more than 30 yards form that of Mrs. Cher, the two former vaudevillians have never met. Blind and confined to a wheelchair, her communication with the outside world is limited mostly to sessions with her physical therapist and small talk with the nurse's aides at mealtime.

She says she would like to meet Klein. In fact, she welcomes the chance to pass some time with any attentive stranger. Her conversations, though, inevitably turn to the gloomy topic which is both a source of fear and relief for her — death.

"My roommate just died," said Mrs. Cher, her back to the empty bed alongside her own. "But it's just one of those things. We all have to go.

"You have to look at it sooner or later. After a while you begin to look forward to death. I look forward to death, I sure do." Then, with a small wave of her hand she added, "because what is this? This is sure not living. With my sight gone and all, I'm sure not living."

Death is a delicate subject among the aged. Bernard Bubman, who runs this 150-patient home in Hollywood, believes that facing death with dignity is an essential lesson that he must help teach his patients.

"The alternative to old age is death," Bubman is fond of saying. "Death and dying are real issues that have to be faced."

Just before Mrs. Cher's roommate died of cancer, Bubman said, she told him, "You know, I am going to be leaving you soon."

"She told me this as she was cleaning out her closet," Bubman said. "I couldn't stand there and say 'Oh, don't talk about that, you're being foolish.' I couldn't destroy her dignity like that."

Helping the aged maintain their dignity is often difficult in an atmosphere of despair, where many people feel lonely and forgotten, and are looking forward to death.

To help bolster spirits, Bubman and his associates maintain a daily regimen of activities and "reality orientation" programs. But many of the patients seem indifferent to the efforts of young staff members and their cheery early-morning rounds of games and activities.

"That's one thing this place does for you," said Mrs. Cher, strapped to her wheelchair in the television room. "It prepares you for death. There's nothing to live for, so you wait for death."

"Watching" television is one of Mrs. Cher's daily rituals. "I can't see anything," she said, "but sitting in here is better than sitting in my room."

So, day after day, Mrs. Cher and about a dozen other patients sit in their wheelchairs — strapped in to keep them from falling — facing a large color television set. Most of them spend more time dozing than watching the set.

One of the disappointments most often faced by people in a nursing home is that they rarely see their families.

"I have a son and a daughter, but unfortunately, I don't see them much," Mrs Cher said. "Neither of them is married, so they have other interests."

Klein, too, has family he rarely sees, "a son who lives down south of here in Newport. But he can't get up here often, it's not easy to get away.

"I have a neice, too, a registered nurse, a real fine one," Klein said, smiling. "She used to look after me, but I guess it was a lot of trouble, like looking after a baby."

Bubman says many factors are involved in families sometimes staying away from elderly relatives.

"It's harder for younger people to deal with the realities of aging, realities like debility and senility," Bubman said. "It is not as easy for them to deal with aging as dealing with the Chicken Pox was for Mom."

Mrs. Cher says she understands why her children stay away.

"When you're young, you don't like to think of death," she said. "Goodness knows, I never did." did."

Hint of trouble

If your car's engine misses, if there are repeated breaks in the rhythmic throbbing of the engine, it is a hint of trouble and the engine should be examined by a capable mechanic immediately.

Thais to get U.S. ammo

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States has agreed to transfer its large stocks of ammunition in Thailand to the Thai government after the withdrawal of the last U.S. forces next month, Foreign Minister Bhichai Rattakul told the House of Representatives.

Bhichai would not say whether the ammunition would be given or sold by the United States. U.S. sources confirmed Bhichai's report, but neither he nor they would say how much would be turned over.

All U.S. forces are to be withdrawn from Thailand by July 20.

Homeowner tax break plans shelved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two major Senate-approved plans to give homeowners tax breaks have been shelved in the Assembly.

Also blocked Tuesday by the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation was a committee member's bill to increase homeowners' and renters' tax exemptions.

The Senate proposals, two constitutional amendments and accompanying bills, were held up for further study by the committee, which means they cannot be put before voters until 1978.

Constitutional amendments require voter approval, and it will be 1978 before they could now be put on a statewide ballot. The measures needed full legislative approval by Thursday to make this November ballot.

Sen. Peter Behr said "just about all the homeowners in the state" supported his package. He vowed to introduce the same measures early in the 1977-78 legislative session and shoot for the 1978 ballot.

It would eliminate property taxes on owner-occupied homes while freezing the assessed value on the land the residenies occupy at 1976-77 levels.

To reimburse local government for reduced property tax revenue, the Marin County Republican proposed a 20 per cent surcharge on the homeowners' income tax and a 5 per cent transfer tax on the sale of owner-occupied residences.

Behr said that use of the income tax surcharge would be less of a hardship on low-income homeowners.

Strong opposition was voiced by realtors and businessmen, who raised questions of whether local government would actually be reimbursed any losses.

Los Angeles City Councilman Marvin Braude urged approval.

"Peter Behr's bill makes it possible for the elderly on fixed income to stay in their homes," Braude said.

Behr, asked by reporters what he thought the opposition had to fear, said: "I've been told (realtors) are worried about reductions in listings from those now forced to sell by high taxes."

By lopsided votes, the committee referred the Behr package to interim study, along with a proposal by Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga.

Also sent to interim study was committee member Paul Bannai's tax exemption bill. The Gardena Republican's measure would cost the state $300 million a year by boosting homeowners' property tax exemption from $7,500 to $9,250 and renters' credit from $37 to $49.

Smith's package would place a ceiling on residential property taxes that would only rise with the cost of living and population change. The proposal would not apply to taxes levied by school districts.

It would require counties to separate residential and business property on the tax rolls.

Although Smith said there would be no shift in tax responsibility, opponents said it would open the door to heavier taxation of business.

Smith said that his package would curb skyrocketing residential property assessments that he said give local government "windfall" revenue. For example, he said counties enjoying a 15 per cent boost in property tax revenue might have to settle for nine per cent

Committee chairman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, said he would call hearings on the proposals in September or October.

The Behr proposals are SB 1325 and SCA 54; Smith's SB 1600 and SCA 47; Bannai's AB 4520.

Mitchell's plea denied

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell Thursday was denied his request to be reinstated as an attorney while his Watergate convictions are appealed.

The New York State Court of Appeals upheld the disbarment called for in state law and rejected Mitchell's contentions that he was denied due process.

"We have said that in the disbarment context, the primary concern is the protection of the public interest," the state's highest court ruled.

"In our view, this concern for the protection of the public interest far outweighs any interest the convicted attorney has in continuing to earn a livelihood in his chosen profession," the court said.

Mitchell, who was President Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager, was convicted Jan. 1, 1975, of three felonies related to the break-in at the offices of the Democratic National Committee in the Watergate complex in Washington and the subsequent cover-up.

Energy use drops in U.S.

Use of energy in the United States dropped for the second year in a row in 1975, according to Commerce Clearing House.

Demand for heat, light and power in all forms in 1975 fell to 71,078 trillion British thermal units (B-TU), according to a CCH report of U.S. Bureau of Mines data.

Convicted molester arrested again

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A man free on bond pending appeal of his conviction last year on child molesting charges has been arrested on 16 new child molesting counts.

Robert C. Bisping, 60, of Norfolk, was in jail Sunday with bond set at $1 million.

He was arrested Friday and charged with four counts of molesting an 8-year-old boy, Norfolk police said. Twelve more child molesting counts were filed Saturday in connection with the same boy and three girls, aged 10, 11 and 17, police said.

The charges involve incidents alleged to have occurre since June 1975, during the time Bisping has been free on $50,000 bond, a police detective said Sunday night.

Bisping was convicted on June 24, 1975, on 13 charges of molesting four girls and a boy, and a Norfolk judge sentenced him to serve 20 years in prison. He appealed the conviction and was allowed to remain free on bond.

The Virginia Supreme Court rejected his appeal earlier this year and he carried his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, which turned down his plea earlier this month.

Farm income

Farm income increased steadily between 1950 and 1970, asthe least productive farmers moved to urban areas for higher wages. In 1973, it actually topped metropolitan income. Currently, farm income is on the same level as urban income, The Conference Board observes.

Dean 'hotdog swinger,' says Haldeman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Dean has been characterized by H. R. Haldeman, former chief of staff under President Richard M. Nixon, as the "hotdog swinger in the square Nixon White House."

Haldeman, who resigned from the White House staff in 1973 during the Watergate investigation said, in a copyright series distributed by Universal Press Syndicate of Kansas City and coauthored with columnist Joe Scott, that Dean would never have gotten his job as counsel to Nixon if he had been given a routine White House check.

"I recruited him but never saw his FBI dossier," Haldeman said."I assumed that Dean had been cleared at Justice. My former staff would be amused to know that, regarding Dean, I violated my own cardinal rule laid down for all subordinates — 'Don't assume.'"

In the fourth installment in the five-part series, Haldeman said if he had seen Dean's dossier, "allegations about a conflict of interest charge, however slight, involving his prior affiliation with a law firm would have been enough to concern me about the smoke, whether or not there was any fire."

Haldeman said "... Dean's relationship with the President, despite suggestions to the contrary, did not exist until Watergate, and only then as a project officer."

Haldeman raised questions of possible Central Intelligence Agency involvement in Watergate, but did not provide any answers.

He said that Alexander Butterfield, who revealed the existence of the White House tapes, sought to become a part of the Nixon team on his own initiative when he was about to become an Air Force general.

"I have never understood why he insisted, against my advice, on dropping his commission," Haldeman said.

"In view of his subsequent role," Haldeman said, "these actions seem even more curious today. "Was Butterfield a CIA agent? Maybe. I just don't know.

"In retrospect, I'm ambivalent as to whether the agency was out to get Nixon ... The agency had the capacity and perhaps, unknown to me, the motivation," he said.

Butterfield, in Washington, has emphatically denied any connection with the CIA and has said "I couldn't begin to guess" why Haldeman might be reviving the issue. "He may really think that," Butterfield added.

He also said it's not true that he had been selected for promotion to brigadier general before taking the White House assignment, as Haldeman alleged.

Butterfield said Haldeman never advised him against dropping his commission. As Butterfield recalls, he was offered a job as Haldeman's immediate deputy in the White House but only if he retired from the Air Force and signed on as a civilian.

"He actually did not advise me to keep my commission," Butterfield said. "He said to think carefully about it and I thought carefully about it."

Butterfield, who headed the Federal Aviation Administration after leaving the White House, is now job hunting, he says and finding it difficult.

Court stays suspension

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The state osteopathic board's suspension of the probationary license of Dr. Joseph A. Emory, charged with murder in the deaths of 10 babies, has been stayed by a court order, but Emory will continue to be barred from practising medicine.

Superior Court Judge Charles S. Vogel stayed the license suspension Tuesday pending a July 2 court hearing of Emory's suit contending his license was lifted without giving him a hearing.

A hearing on Emory's licensing is scheduled for July 6 by the state Board of Osteopathic Examiners, which previously revoked Emory's license following his conviction of murder in the 1960 death of a woman after an abortion.

Emory's license was reinstated by the board May 2, 1974.

The 55-year-old Emory, who was arrested June 7, faces a preliminary hearing on 10 murder charges July 12. He is currently free on $50,000 bail.

WANTS CITIZENSHIP BACK — Hope Cooke, shown in 1971, has been trying to persuade Congress to restore her American citizenship, but some members are offended that she voluntarily renounced her U.S. citizenship to marry the King of Sikkim 11 years ago.

Life of queen not so idyllic

WASHINGTON (AP) — As in a fairy tale, the beautiful American girl fell in love with a handsome prince, married him and went to live in his mountain kingdom. But they didn't live happily ever after.

The fairy tale became a nightmare for Hope Cooke Namgyal, the New York socialite who became queen of the Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim 11 years ago. Her problems still aren't over.

Mrs. Namgyal left Sikkim three years ago with her two children after her husband, Palden Thondup Namgyal, turned over most of his government administration to India following a revolt against his rule.

For the past year, the 35-year-old former queen has been trying to persuade Congress to restore her American citizenship. But the attempt has proven futile.

Several members of the House immigration, citizenship and international law subcommittee were offended that she voluntarily renounced her citizenship to marry the king.

As a result of their opposition, Congress refused to grant her full citizenship, instead passing a bill to give her permanent residency.

As a permanent resident, she will have to wait five years before becoming a citizen, but the congressional action does prevent her deportation to Sikkim.

The private relief bill, approved last month, has been sent to President Ford for his signature, expected this week.

Mrs. Namgyal, living in New York with her children, has refused to talk to reporters. But in a statement to Congress supporting her request for citizenship, she described her last days in Sikkim.

"Life became hell," she said, adding she feared for her children's lives.

The shy, soft-spoken American married the then crown prince of Sikkim, a mountain kingdom tucked between China and India, in 1963. She became gyalmo (queen) in 1965, at Namgyal's coronation as chogyal (king).

"By Sikkimese law, I had to give up my American citizenship," she said in the statement. But she also felt an obligation to show the Sikkimese she was not an 'American arm' in the Himalayas," she said.

At first, life was idyllic. She became deeply involved in Sikkimese life, working to improve the educational system and to encourage the export of handicrafts. She gave birth to a son in 1964 and a daughter in 1968.

"To live in Sikkim was to be part of a wonderfully woven group — everyone shared and participated," she said. "The palace, which was small, was open to anyone who came.

But, she said, "in April 1973, that harmony, that woven society, was slashed by the unprecedented, cruelly disruptive beginning of mob disorders."

The revolt began with a feud between the king and a wealthy landlord who had campaigned for reduction of the monarch's powers and had widespread support. The people resented the queen's American background.

"My being there seemed counterproductive both for Sikkim's integrity, America's and my own," she said.

"Day by day, life deteriorated from 1973 on. My children, who had once run through town and countryside free as urchins were suddenly faced with ongoing physical danger."

Before his wife left the country, the king turned over most of the internal administration to the Indian government. In April 1975, he was deposed, and he remains under house arrest. Sikkim has been annexed as a state of India.

By living in the United States, Mrs. Namgyal said, she hoped to "make a small, durable life for myself and children and to reinstill in them some measure of hope, confidence and idealism.

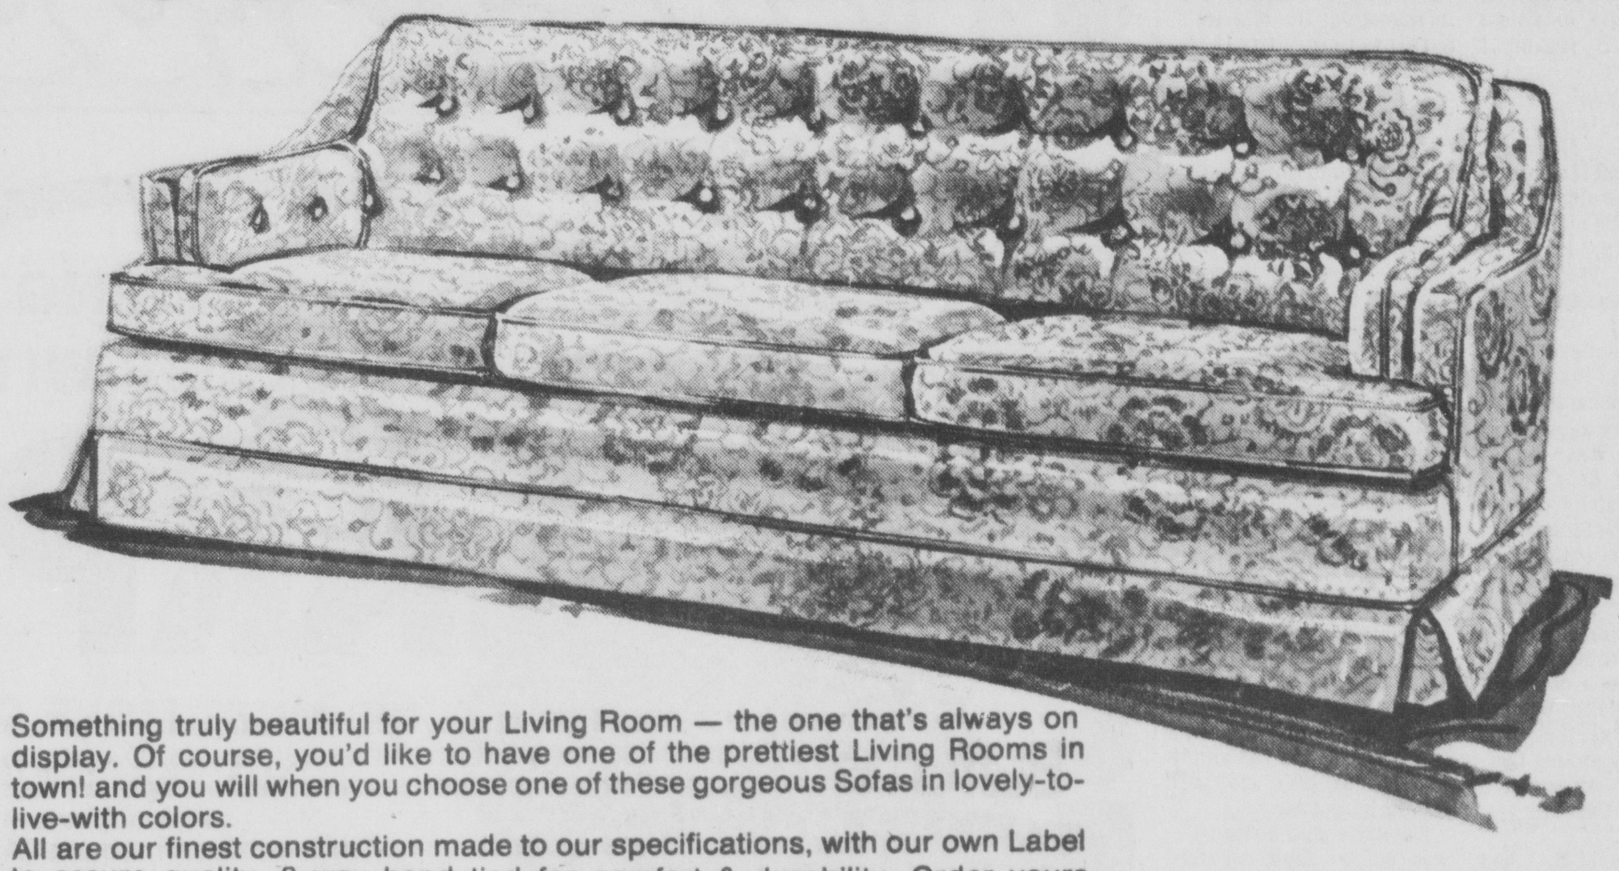

"Since being here, they and I are beginning to feel some sense of security and rootedness," she said.

Although she said that giving up her citizenship had been "one of my greatest sacrifices," the House immigration subcommittee, which deals with private citizenship bills, felt that didn't make any difference.

"The committee had problems with someone who had renounced her citizenship," said a subcommittee staff member. "Citizenship is something you don't renounce and then hope to get handed back automatically."

As a result, even though the Senate had passed a bill giving her citizenship, the House amended it to give her permanent residency.

Can't tell if D.C. is in trouble; books a mess

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia may be heading into dire financial straits, but it's impossible to tell because the capital city's accounting is such a mess. Congress is being asked this week to spend $20 million for an accurate fiscal profile of the District.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, chairman of the Senate District Committee, says the funds would help correct deficiencies in city bookeeping practices. A nine-volume audit of the city's finances found much to correct.

The accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co. said a comprehensive audit is impossible because city records are in such disarray. The firm said it could not even tell if the city is running a debt or a surplus.

Eagleton, a Democrat from Missouri, said $20 million would pay to put the bookkeeping in adequate shape to gauge the District's financial condition.

"I don't think Washington is on the imminent brink of financial catastrophe, but if we don't take the necessary corrective actions, the city might be in five years," Eagleton said.

The Andersen report said the District is losing millions of dollars each year through inaccurate records and unsound fiscal practices. Here again, said Andersen, it was impossible to say how much money the District actually was losing in federal aid and revenue collections.

The Andersen report noted the city's financial records contained "many inaccurate numbers and ... major omissions of financial data." Blame for the muddled bookkeeping was placed equally among Congress, the executive branch and the District government.

The report said D.C. had $1.7 billion in unfunded liabilities in its pension program, and more than $100 million in delinquent accounts in its hospital billing systems. Two out of every three payments the city made to public assistance recipients were in error, the report said.

The city has exercised little control over its federal grants, overspending some while underspending others, the audit said. And the report said that because of lax record-keeping it is impossible for the city to determine whether 120,000 water and sewer customers are being properly billed or which bills have been collected.

The Andersen report, released last weekend, was ordered earlier this year after Eagleton noticed "some very disturbing similarities" between Washington's financial plight and that of New York City's.

"Washington's problems aren't of the same colossal magnitude as New York's, but its books and records are in the same atrocious shape, it has been operating at a deficit, its unfunded pension liabilities are more than $1 billion and, like New York, it supports an enormous payroll," said Eagleton.

Part of the problem is the sloppy job Congress did in managing the district's affairs prior to 1974, Eagleton said.

D.C. Mayor Walter Washington said the findings will lay the groundwork to improve the city's credit rating and reduce its bond costs.

About 40 per cent of the city's revenue comes directly from the federal government — about $280 million annually — even though in 1974 Congress approved, and city voters ratified, a "home rule" charter giving the city its own elected officials and ordinance-passing and taxing powers for the first time.

According to Eagleton, one way to balance the D.C. budget is by "cutting back on the city's lavish generosity in its pension system and reducing its payroll." Eagleton has said he feels the District's 55,000 employe payroll should be cut back.

Eagleton said home-rule was not at fault for the District's fiscal headaches.

"As the city became more complex, the process of book and record-keeping did not keep pace," Eagleton said. "Congress must take some of the blame. No one was particularly focusing on the day-to-day operations of the city, not anyone in Congress and not the appointed administrators of the city."

Eagleton said that even with the $20 million it could take two years to "bring the books and records of the district up to snuff. This is something we should have done before we turned the district over to the home-rule system."

He said once the records are in good shape, the district should submit to annual audits to monitor the city's financial status.

Eagleton said the new mood in Congress for financial accountability on the part of D.C. officials may increase the impetus for an income tax on suburbanites who work in the city.

He said such a tax would help the district overcome many of its financial problems and that he supports such a "commuter tax." Such a tax remains politically controversial, and Congress is not likely to pass it anytime soon.

Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., of the House District Committee, said the city will need to get its books in order if it hopes to sell municipal bonds like other cities — something which the capital has never been permitted to do before.

The audit ordered by Eagleton was prompted by efforts last year by D.C. officials to win congressional approval to sell $50 million in municipal bonds.

Mathias said investors probably would not buy D.C. bonds unless they knew the city followed sound accounting procedures.

Four inmates are stabbed

NORCO (AP) — Four inmates at the California Rehablitation Center here have been stabbed in an ambush by members of a rival prison gang, authorities say.

Officials said each of the men suffered multiple wounds in the stabbings Tuesday in a walkway near the prison laundry.

The most seriously injured was identified as Rudolfo Valdez, 27, who was listed in stable condition at Riverside General Hospital with nine stab wounds.

Have political battles

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Before my wife and I got married we never talked about our political views, maybe because we were so interested in love. I've regretted this ever since because we differ so violently that we have many arguments. Naturally, in a political campaign year like this one, our life is sheer hell. I don't get any comfort from men I know. Regardless of their political views, there seems to be harmony in their homes. Are they kidding me or do they know something I should know? — V.S.

Dear V.S.: I suspect they're telling the truth but you might find peace and harmony quite dull. Perhaps, they do too. Difference of opinion can add a spark to a marriage if both partners learn to respect each other's rights as individuals.

Studies indicate that you and your wife are in a minority in the sense that you don't share the same political views. This simply may mean, however, that you're both strong and independent. In general, most wives and husbands are of the same political party and vote for the same candidate.

This may be because one partner is being dominated by the other and is, consciously or unconsciously, repressing his or her views, or it may be because men and women from similar backgrounds tend to have similar political attitudes and tend to marry someone of the same persuasion. Studies indicate that many political conversions take place in adulthood. The wife is more apt to switch to her husband's view than vice versa. This certainly doesn't mean, however, that either partner should have to switch.

Instead of arguing, enjoy your tolerance and independence.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: About six months ago, I started to stutter whenever I got the slightest bit uptight. This worries me because I notice that it's getting worse and worse. Once I start, it gets harder and harder to stop. Do you have any suggestions about how I might get over this? I've noticed a glass of wine helps but I can't drink wine all the time and I can't carry it with me wherever I go. — J.H.

Dear J.H.: The alcohol probably eases the tension and relaxes you but there are other ways to accomplish this that are more convenient than having to depend on a drug.

Psychologists N.H. Azrin and R.G. Nunn worked with a number of stutterers of all ages and found a method that helped all of their subjects. The stutterers were taught a deep-breathing procedure that required interrupting their speech to breath deeply whenever they started or thought they might be about to stutter. Immediately, after a pause for breath, they relaxed their throat, thought of what they were going to say and then continued.

After a few days, the interruptions in speech were no longer noticeable. Soon most had completely overcome the difficulty.

While you're working on this method, try to find out just what situations make you most nervous. The stutter can actually be valuable to you, if you allow it to point out and underline your fears and anxieties. If you feel you're going to stutter more in the presence of certain people, try to determine why they make you so nervous. It helps to prepare yourself in advance for stutter-prone situations. Often, people become anxious when they are afraid others won't like them or will reject them. The more you can build your own confidence, the less important others' views of you will be.

Summer wedding planned

The bride-to-be is a 1975 graduate of San Diego State where she received a bachelor's degree in liberal arts and a teaching credential. She is continuing graduate school at San Francisco State to obtain a specialist credential in education of the deaf.

Mr. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Boyd of San Jose, has a master's degree in geology from San Diego State.

The couple will be married this summer at Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Gardens in Claremont.

Dramatic period in history

Exhibition examines role

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Following its premiere three-month showing here starting June 30, an exhibition that examines the role of women during a dramatic period in American history will be on view through 1977 in a number of cities across the nation.

"...Remember the Ladies...Women in America 1750-1815" provides an overview of the domestic life and fluctuating status of all American women — society women, working women, American Indian women, slaves and indentured servants — from the Revolution to the height of the Republican Era.

Many of its documents, artifacts and works of art, on loan from private collections, museums and historical societies, will be on national view for the first time, according to Conover Hunt, a noted American curator who organized the show, jointly sponsored by Clairol and Philip Morris Inc.

"The exhibition is a rediscovery of the diverse role played by women during the era of American independence, a story largely ignored, suppressed or forgotten today," says Miss Hunt, former director of the DAR Museum in Washington, whose search for material took her to 110 museums and private collections.

"In the middle of the 18th century, American women had achieved a status they would not regain until our own time," she adds. "But from 1750 to 1815, the status of women declined sharply. Upper class women of the early 19th century withdrew from economic and political life, opting for domesticity and dependence."

For all others, including slaves and Indian women, freedom and opportunity became more elusive. In the process, the very real and substantial role of women in the creation of American independence was literally forgotten. The written history of the period not only diminished women's role; it all but obliterated it.

The exhibition fills in that gap in our nation's history by providing a well rounded view of our "founding women" and revealing far greater levels of heroism, influence and achievement than standard history has ever recognized, Miss Hunt points out.

Its highlights include: the lives of Revolutionary-era women, some of whom made guns as well as flags, became expert spies, scouts and smugglers of supplies for the Continental Army and, in some cases, fought as soldiers in the cause of independence.

Also the prose and polemics of Mercy Otis Warren, a major influence on the leaders and events that shaped early U.S. history, and the story of the internationally acclaimed slave poet Phillis Wheatley.

There are displays, including her cookbook, concerning the outspoken Abigail Adams, whose entreaty to her husband John to "remember the ladies" in the writing of the Constitution — which he shrugged off — gives the exhibition its title.

Included in the wide-ranging collection gathered by Miss Hunt are an exceptional selection of women's paintings and needlework; a wealth of period costumes, furnishings, engravings and portraits; Dolley Madison's turban, and a first edition of Miss Warren's "History of the American Revolution" with her notations.

After its initial showing at the Pilgrim Hall and Plymouth Antiquarian Society here the exhibition will travel to The High Museum of Art, Atlanta, Oct. 16-Nov. 14; Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., Dec. 3-Dec. 31; Chicago Historical Society, Chicago, Jan. 18-Feb. 20, 1977; Lyndon Baines Johnson Library, Austin, Tex., March 15-April 23, 1977; and New York Historical Society, New York, May 10-June 15, 1977.

Church Women schedule retreat

All women of Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas are invited to attend the first retreat of the Bonita Unit of Church Women United on July 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the School of Theology in Claremont. Each person attending is requested to bring a sack lunch and beverage will be provided.

Mrs. Jane Lindsey, chairman for the state assembly held at the Disneyland Hotel in January, will be the leader for the day. She will also lead the singing and will be accompanied by Mrs. Daniel Williams, a resident of Pilgrim Place in Claremont.

Theme for the retreat is "Freedom To Be."

Really undone

Before you buy a pair of rope-wedged shoes, make sure the tope isn't frayed. If it is, pass it up. Chances are, the rest of the shoe will come undone, too.

MR. AND MRS. DAYTON DAVIS

Davises to observe 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Davis will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at a buffet dinner Sunday to be given by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Betty Davis of Ontario and granddaughter, Mrs. Karen Turley of San Bernardino.

The party will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Turley in San Bernardino.

Their four children, Ronald E. Davis, Robert P. Davis, Mrs. Rowena Glidden and Raymond D. Davis, all of Ontario, will be present. The Davises have 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

They were married June 28, 1926, in Benton, Ill., and lived in Zeigler, Ill., and Wheatland Wyo., before moving to the Ontario area 31 years ago.

The Davises are members of the Allyn Avenue Baptist Church in Ontario. Mr. Davis is retired from Kaiser Steel.

Benefit charted at Chaffey High

The Cooperative Institute of Music and Arts of Pomona, under the auspices of the Claremont-Montclair Chapter of City of Hope will present a benefit performance June 30 at 7:30 p.m. in Gardner Spring Auditorium at Chaffey High School in Ontario.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Joseph D. Graff Sr., a dance review in honor of the Bicentennial year, "Happy Birthday, America" will be performed by 125 students from the ages of 3 to 17. The program will include tap, ballet and jazz.

Music numbers will be presented by members of Chaffey High School Chamber Singers.

There will be no admission charge but donations will be received in the form of a silver offering for the City of Hope.

Auxiliary gives check to foundation

The Los Angeles County Firefighters Auxiliary (The Cinders) recently presented a check for $350 to Roy Hinger, president of the Alisa Ann Ruch Burn Foundation.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Robert Bringhurst. Funds for the donation were raised throughout the year.

CLASSIFIED LITTLE NON-HISTORY

Sweet Betsy of Ross was great with her stitches;
She could sew up a rip,
or let out your britches.

When Washington saw that a war was a must, he called on sweet Betsy and gave her this trust.

"Make me a flag,"
he wrote in a letter.
"Put stars on and stripes or design something better."

And Betsy, she did, adding thirteen white stars and red and white stripes, place of the Englishmen's bars.

But history neglects to state in the books, her flag was almost too small for good looks.

A lack of material
made the outlook quite bad,
'til she found some more cloth
through a Classified ad.

WANTED
Need red, white and blue cloth for flag raising project. Will pay top dollar. See Betsy Ross.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT MAKES THE RINGS ON A TREE?"

A. JUST UNDER THE BARK OF A TREE IS A THIN LAYER OF GROWING TREE TISSUE CALLED THE CAMBIUM. IT ADDS A NEW LAYER, OR RING, OF WOOD AROUND THE TRUNK EACH YEAR.

SUSAN O'BRIEN LOUDONVILLE, NY

When a tree is cut down, you can see layers, or rings, of wood spreading out from the middle of the trunk. By counting the rings, you can tell how many years old the tree was when it was cut down.

A tree never stops growing as long as it lives. Just under the bark of a tree is a thin layer of growing tissue called the cambium. The cambium makes the tree grow thicker by adding a new layer of wood around the trunk each year.

This new layer of wood is called the annual growth ring.

Because the tree grows in a different way during the different seasons, the annual ring will show a band of light and dark wood — a light band for spring and a dark band for summer.

The annual rings are thick in years of good rainfall and thin in poor years.

By examining these annual rings, foresters can tell what the weather may have been like in past centuries.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

When a tree is cut down, you can see layers, or rings, of wood spreading out from the middle of the trunk. By counting the rings, you can tell how many years old the tree was when it was cut down.

A tree never stops growing as long as it lives. Just under the bark of a tree is a thin layer of growing tissue called the cambium. The cambium makes the tree grow thicker by adding a new layer of wood around the trunk each year.

The cambium makes the branches and roots grow thicker, too!

This new layer of wood is called the annual growth ring.

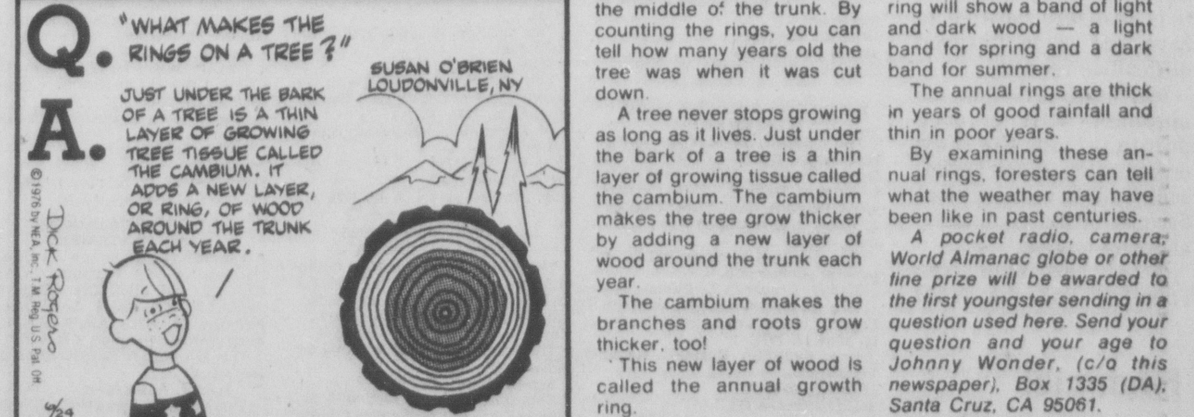

Because the tree grows in a different way during the different seasons, the annual ring will show a band of light and dark wood — a light band for spring and a dark band for summer.

The annual rings are thick in years of good rainfall and thin in poor years.

By examining these annual rings, foresters can tell what the weather may have been like in past centuries.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

NAM-Chamber merger slated

NEW YORK (AP) — "We are at the end of a 40-year tidal wave of economic liberalism," said Richard L. Lesher. "The general population is now singing the same song we have sung for years."

Lesher is the man named to preside over the merged efforts of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, announced this week and scheduled to be completed this year.

When he made the statement in an interview last week, Lesher spoke only as president of the National Chamber, which he said was "right out there in front" of the parade, playing the conservative theme song.

On Monday the chamber and the NAM, the two most powerful business groups in the country, announced their intention to complete merger within six months, a move which Lesher believes can only mean even more harmony.

"It's the story of the year," he said, not about the merger but about what he called "a crossover period" toward more conservatism that, he said, is now being illustrated in toned down speeches by liberal political candidates.

"People are dissatisfied with overpromise," he said. "They're becoming more objective, and they'll measure performance of public and private sectors against realistic standards, against what is possible."

He indicated that a corollary to this is "more fear and concern today about the survival of private enterprise than at any time in history." People are worried, he indicated, that a good thing might be lost.

"The small-business man is climbing the walls trying to accommodate government investigators," he said. "There are probably very few small-business men who couldn't be fined or put in jail."

But the worry, he suggested, is not defeatist. Instead, it is a reaction to that "great disaster" of thinking the federal government has the answer to everything. The reaction, he said, is vital, optimistic, grass roots.

"Now people realize that a lot of these government programs have not worked well, that they are counterproductive, and that there are now some third generation welfare people. There's been an erosion of values."

Whether its because Congress is more willing to listen, or contrarily, because it doesn't hear the new song, the chamber has greatly expanded its testimony before that group, from an average of 50 times a year to 94 most recently.

The chamber also has added 8,000 members since Lesher, 43, took over a bit more than a year ago, and now numbers 56,500 individual, business and professional members, and 3,500 organization members.

The NAM claims 13,000 members, which it says is an improvement over figures for earlier years, when mergers eliminated some members. However, it is realiably reported to have had some financial difficulties recently.

Indications are that the chamber will emerge dominant in the new organization, which Lesher said "will have more clout because of the elimination of waste motion."

Often, he said, the chamber and the NAM have had the same policy positions, have conducted separate meetings of members to consider them, and therefore have compelled dual members to attend duplicate sessions.

Asked if policy changes would result from the merger, Lesher replied: "I doubt it. We're already very, very similar down the line in policy."

Judging from Lesher's remarks expressed in the interview before merger plans were announced, a big change might occur in the attitude of the membership, which long has felt the public tended toward tone deafness.

Now that there is more harmony, he suggested, the battle should be more effective.

Financial news award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 winners of the Janus Awards for "Excellence in Financial News Programming" are KMOX, St. Louis; WTMJ-TV, Milwaukee, and ABC, New York.

The awards are presented annually "to recognize broadcasting stations and networks whose financial news programs have made a significant contribution to community understanding of commerce and finance."

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4593
VALLEY BOULEVARD LANDSCAPING
(Walnut Area)

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Road Commissioner of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 180, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033, until 9:30 a.m. on June 29, 1976; and then will be publicly opened and read in Room 193 at the above address for the installation of polyethylene film, sprinkler system, landscaping and other incidental and appurtenant work estimated to cost less than $10,000. all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans, Specifications, Notices and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are on file and open for inspection at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in leu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the office of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all workmen employed by them in the execution of the contract. The successful bidder will be required to post a copy thereof at the jobsite.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to all the pertinent contract documents. Copies are now on file and open for public inspection in the office of the Architect, Cashion-Horie, Architects, Inc., 720 North Park Avenue, Pomona, California and in the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Business, Pomona Unified School District, 800 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California. Plans and Specifications and all pertinent contract documents may be obtained for bidding at the office of the Architect, upon deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per set. Each twenty-five dollars ($25.00) deposit will be refunded if the drawings and specifications are returned in good condition within 10 days after Bid Opening.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

All bidders must specify that they are an equal opportunity employer.

SALES
Wake Up!
It should be obvious that there are only 2 ways to make any real money in California, go into business for yourself or take a commission sales position.
I am talking about a full time professional sales career with the oldest and largest international organization of its kind in existence. I am taling about an opportunity to build a consistently growing income which is based on that ability of yours you have been dying to use. Benefits include pension plan, free life insurance plan, major health insurance and personal as well as professional growth.
This could be "THAT" opportunity to break into sales which you have often thought about.
We furnish a complete training program. Sales experience not necessary; some of our most successful people have no background in sales.
